North Viets Link POW Releases, Guarantees

PARIS (AP) — North Vietnam said today it will resume freeing American prisoners of war as soon as the Joint Military Commission in Saigon guarantees the security of its communist members in South Vietnam's cities.

A North Vietnamese spokesman, Nguyen Thanh Le told a news conference that the liberation of prisoners will resume "normally" as soon as the four-member commission has adopted a North Vietnamese "working plan" to safeguard commission personnel.

Le repeated Communist protests against attacks on North Vietnamese and Viet Cong members of the commission in Hue and Da Nang.

Secretary of State William P. Rogers prepared to demand resumption of prisoner releases.

Rogers was to meet with the North Vietnamese foreign minister, Nguyen Duy Trinh, before conducting any other conference business. Nonetheless, lesser U.S. and North Vietnamese officials were approaching a compromise over a procedure for reporting cease-fire violations.

President Nixon ordered Rogers to suspend all his activities at the conference until he met with Trinh, but conference sources stressed the order did not freeze their aides' efforts to agree on a formal declaration concerning peacekeeping machinery. The goal is to have it signed by the weekend.

Even before the White House announced Nixon's orders, the conference had recessed until Thursday while a drafting committee hammered out details of the declaration.

Deputy Assistant Secretary of State William Sullivan met for 2½ hours Tuesday night with North Vietnam's deputy foreign minister, Nguyen Co Thach, at the International Conference Center on Avenue Kleber.

Conference sources said the meeting was concerned mainly with eliminating remaining differences over the peacekeeping declaration.

Sullivan would not comment on his discussion with Thach other than to say it was concerned with "making progress at the conference".

Conference sources said the drafting committee would meet today without any U.N. presence.

They said a U.N. official was present at Tuesday morning's meeting but without an identification nameplate in front of him. When the meeting resumed after lunch, the U.N. plate was visible and the Communists immediately protested.

Vietnam Pullout Suspended

SAIGON (AP) — The United States suspended its troop withdrawals from Vietnam today in an attempt to prod North Vietnam into releasing another large group of American prisoners of war, U.S. authorities report.

Hanoi also was given a virtual U.S. ultimatum to dismantle an anti-aircraft missile base south of the demilitarized zone.

Maj. Gen. Gilbert H. Woodward, the senior U.S. representative to the four-party Joint Military Commission, told the Communists the United States "reserves the right with its allies to take such actions as it deems appropriate" if the North Vietnamese do not remove the SAM batteries which the Americans and South Vietnamese say have been located at Khe Sanh since the ceasefire. This was assumed to be an implied threat of air attack on the missile sites.

No progress was reported from the meeting of the senior members of the commission, and a parallel meeting of a subcommission on captured persons also failed to resolve the POW stalemate.

A North Vietnamese spokesman said the Communists told the commission meeting the POW release was being delayed because the United States and South Vietnam were still not observing all provisions of the cease-fire agreement.

No further meetings were scheduled until Friday.

High-ranking authorities said that the U. S. Command, on orders from President Nixon, had suspended its troop pullouts with 11,300 Americans still in Vietnam.

Prices Paid To Farmers Behind Food Price Boosts

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Agriculture Department said today that higher farm prices were entirely to blame for last month's record 2.5-per-cent increase in supermarket food costs. Beef and pork prices hit record highs; eggs were up 18 per cent.

Middlemen, including those who buy farm products, transform them into retail items and sell to consumers, actually absorbed part of the January increase, the department said in a report.

Translated into annual terms, a "market basket" of food— theoretically enough to feed a typical family for an entire year—cost a record $1,375 in January. That was $37 more than the annual rate in December.

The 2.5-per-cent increase for the market basket was the largest since the government began gauging costs of take home groceries in 1952.

The "farm value," or a farmer's share of what consumers pay for food, was $588 in January, up $40 from December. The middleman took $787 in January, down $3 from December.

Compared with a year earlier, the January market basket cost $102 more, including a boost of $85 for farmers and $17 for middlemen.

Today's report dealt only with retail food items which originate on U.S. farms. Imported products and seafood are not included in the marketbasket calculations.

The department two weeks ago predicted that supermarket food prices for all of 1973 may go up 6 to 6.5 per cent, with the pressure on consumers expected to ease later in the year as more livestock and other products move to market.

Meantime, today's report showed that prices advanced in January for most of the basic food needed by family meal-planners.

"Substantially higher prices for beef, pork, poultry, eggs and fresh vegetables accounted for most of the rise," the report said.

Farmers, who saw their share of consumer food spending rise 7.1 per cent in January and average 16.9 per cent above a year earlier realized some of the sharpest gains for livestock products such as beef and pork.

Meat as a group accounts for nearly 30 per cent of the average family's grocery bill, according to government economists.

Nixon Committee Says Funds Returned To Fraud Suspect

NEW YORK (AP) — President Nixon's re-election campaign committee says it returned $250,000 contributed last year by Robert L. Vesco, a financier the Securities and Exchange Commission has charged in connection with a $224 million fraud.

A spokesman for the Finance Committee to Re-elect the President said in Washington Tuesday the contributions were returned to Vesco Jan. 31, 1973, two months after the SEC sued Vesco and 41 other individuals and companies.

The committee reportedly received a secret $200,000 cash contribution from Vesco last April 10, three days after the new campaign disclosure law went into effect. Vesco, of Boonton, N.J., subsequently made public contributions totaling $50,000.

Maurice Stans, the former commerce secretary who headed the Nixon finance committee, received the $200,000 contribution in his office, according to testimony by New Jersey attorney Harry L. Sears made public here Tuesday.

Sears, who ran the Nixon reelection campaign in New Jersey, testified for two days last week in pretrial depositions in the SEC's fraud suit filed in U.S. District Court here.

Vesco and eight close associates are charged with draining the $224 million dollars from Investors Overseas

Village Of Russia Receives Park Grant

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — The Village of Russia in Shelby County has received a $74,499 federal grant to develop a community park.

Ohio Natural Resources Director William Nye said the money will be matched locally to develop a 9.4-acre park site.

The money was awarded by the U.S. Bureau of Outdoor Recreation.

Services Ltd., the ailing mutual fund empire Vesco gained control of two years ago.

Vesco, 37, became chairman of IOS in January, 1971, several months after he arranged a $5 million loan to the ailing mutual fund empire founded by Bernie Cornfeld. IOS, although it once controlled $2.5 billion worth of invested capital, was running short of operating capital at the time. Vesco resigned prior to the SEC suit.

Ashbrook Rips Nixon

WASHINGTON (AP) — U. S. Rep. John Ashbrook, R-17 Ohio, today criticized both Congress and the Nixon Administration for the current battle over Congressional authority and impounded federal funds.

The conservative congressman, who last year challenged Nixon for the Republican Presidential nomination, said in a prepared statement that Congress must "stake out its position of responsibility and domain before it's too late."

Ashbrook said that one of the greatest dangers facing the country today is the "erosion of legislative authority and the oversight and growth of a vast pyramid in the executive branch."

He said the present weak state of Congress stemmed from its passive action in the past decade, especially in the field of foreign policy.

He charged that the President was seeking more control over domestic programs with his recent cabinet reshuffling.

Ashbrook also said the President's impoundment of funds is not a "cure for this country's fiscal and economic problems."

Indians Take Over Tiny Town

WOUNDED KNEE, S.D. (AP) — Some 200 members of the American Indian Movement were in control of this small town today and were holding about 10 of its residents hostage, authorities reported.

One AIM leader said the Indians had vowed "to die if necessary" unless their demands were met.

About 90 law enforcement officers sealed off the area on the Pine Ridge Indian Reservation in southwestern South Dakota after the takeover Tuesday night by the militant Indian group.

Joseph H. Trimbach, special FBI agent in charge of the Minneapolis division, said the Indians were holding the hostages in the town's four or five buildings and shots were fired at any approaching car.

The town has a population of about 1,000.

Carter Camp, a national AIM coordinator reached by telephone, said "we have made a complete commitment to die if necessary" if the government was not willing to take steps to redress what the Indians regarded as injustices.

He said the demands included:

—"The Senate committee headed by Sen. Ted Kennedy launch an immediate investigation of the Bureau of Indian Affairs and the Department of the Interior for their handling of the Ogallala Sioux nation."

—"That Sen. William Fulbright investigate the 371 treaties between the federal government and the Indians to show how the government has failed to live up to the terms of the treaties. We can prove the United States never keeps its treaty commitments."

—"That the Ogallala Sioux be allowed to elect their own officials. Those now in office are just puppets. They need traditionalists."

Camp said the Indians were holding the priest of a Roman Catholic church among the hostages. "The church sits on high ground and gives a commanding view of the area. We have the men and the weapons to hold it."

Camp said a number of the Indians were armed with "high-powered" rifles.

Trimbach said the AIM demands were sent to Washington and added that the FBI was waiting for instructions from the capital.

Camp said it "is symbolic that we have seized Wounded Knee and there is a definite threat that another massacre could occur here. We are not going to give in without a fight."

Wounded Knee was the site in 1890 of a bloody battle between Sioux Indians and federal troops in which some 200 Indian men, women and children were killed. The battle, subject of the recent book "Bury My Heart at Wounded Knee," marked an end to fighting between Indians and white men in the Dakota territories.

Camp said war drums were played throughout the night and they would continue until some of the grievances of the Ogallala Sioux have been resolved.

Ohio Senate Ponders Bill To End 'Bed Sheet' Balloting

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — A proposal to do away with Ohio's "bed sheet" primary election ballots was before the Ohio Senate today with the legislative halls still reverberating from another invasion by supporters of the women's equal rights amendment.

The proposed constitutional change to eliminate a requirement for national convention delegate candidates to list their names on the ballot has bipartisan support. It provides that a vote for a presidential candidate on the primary ballot would be a vote for the delegates pledged to that candidate.

Sen. Stanley J. Aronoff, R-8 Cincinnati, and other sponsors said it is intended to eliminate "bed sheet" ballots which helped result in unduly long lines at the polls and slow vote counting last May. The proposal would go before the voters in November.

A national leader of the equal rights amendment showed up Tuesday night to lend her support to Ohio ratification of the U.S. amendment which would prohibit discrimination on the basis of sex.

Rep. Martha Griffiths, D-Mich., who sponsored the resolution in Congress, received enthusiastic applause from a crowd of about 300 proponents who appeared along with her before the House State Government Committee. Tuesday night's hearing was set aside for supporters after the committee heard last week from opponents.

Mrs. Griffiths generally sought to counter opposition arguments that the amendment would lead to the destruction of family life by encouraging women to leave the home and work. "This amendment is directed at governments, not at family relationships," she said, adding "it would force the legislatures to legislate" to see that women's rights are guaranteed.

Earlier Tuesday, the House refused, 55-36, to go along with Senate changes in a constitutional resolution that would pay more than a half million Ohio Vietnam veterans a bonus of up to $500 (more in some instances). The vote cleared the way for a Senate-House conference committee to thrash out partisan differences that kept the amendment off the May ballot. It now is expected to be placed on the November ballot.

The House vote was the only major floor action of the day.

In other developments, Sen. Tony P. Hall, D-6 Dayton, and Sen. Michael J. Maloney, R-7 Cincinnati, introduced a major bill that would permit Ohio cities to enlist private capital into their fight to save blighted areas and provide more jobs to stimulate their sagging economies.

The measure would permit so-called "impacted" cities— those which contracted for urban redevelopment, but never got federal funds to finish— to freeze property taxes in blighted areas for 20 years for private firms which would be given limited power of private domain in those designated areas.

Hall, who announced earlier this month that the bill was forthcoming, said publicity given to his announcement already has generated a lot of interest among cities. "We've really been getting the calls from them," he said. He and Maloney said the legislation "could be among the most meaningful for cities in the history of the state."

Otherwise, a 16-bill package incorporating Gov. John Gilligan's proposed election reforms was introduced in the House. The bills carried the names of various Democratic sponsors proposing such things as reducing Ohio's voter residency requirement from six months to 30 days for all elections (instead of only presidential elections, which is the current law), and to require statewide voter registration.

The proposals also would extend voting hours two hours until 8:30 p.m., eliminate a requirement that absentee ballots be notarized, permit voter registration at public places where an admission is charged, and extend the deadline for the return of absentee ballots to election day, itself, among other things.

Other new bills would prohibit common law marriages and add two faculty members and two students representatives to state university boards of trustees. They would have full voting power.

Markets

NEW YORK (AP) — Stock market prices turned higher today, erasing an earlier loss in the blue-chip sector.

The Dow Jones average of 30 industrials, off more than 5 points earlier in the session, was up 2.56 to 950.48 at noon.

Analysts called the rebound largely technical, noting that the blue-chip indicator had fallen some 35 points in the last five sessions. Declining issues, however, still led advances by 7 to 4 on the New York Stock Exchange.

Newton Zinder, analyst with E.F. Hutton & Co., noted that the increase in volume signaled that a rally was in the making.

Volume leader on the Big Board was Kidde, off 1/8 to 21 3/4.

On the American Stock Exchange, the price-change index at noon was off .03 to 24.71, while the Big Board index was up .11 to 59.73.

Other Big Board issues included McDonald's, soft in recent sessions after some negative comments on the fast-food industry by an analyst, which today rebounded 3/4 to 63 3/8.

Expect Congress To Extend Federal Spending Authority

WASHINGTON (AP) — Acting to beat a midnight deadline, Congress today was expected to extend until June 30 present spending levels for foreign aid and the Departments of Labor and Health, Education and Welfare.

The spending resolution now in effect, extended four times already, expires at midnight tonight. It supplants a twice-vetoed regular appropriation bill for the two departments, and a foreign-aid money bill that failed last year because Congress couldn't agree on a new foreign-aid authorization bill.

Under the extension, spending would continue through the end of this fiscal year at an annual rate of $28 billion for labor and HEW and $3.6 billion for foreign aid.

The administration has asked for $1.5 billion more for foreign aid and $1.9 billion less for labor and HEW.

On Monday, the Senate Foreign Relations Committee voted along straight party lines to cut off foreign aid April 30 unless President Nixon releases $4.5 billion approved by Congress for domestic programs. The committee attached that provision, along with one prohibiting spending of appropriated funds for rehabilitation of North Vietnam without congressional approval, to a bill authorizing $1.55 billion in military aid to 64 countries over the next four months.

Also Monday, the Senate approved an extension of foreign aid spending only until April 30, while approving spending for labor and HEW through June 30. The spending bill was then returned to the House, which had voted to extend spending for foreign aid and the domestic programs through June 30.

Senate conferees Tuesday yielded to the House's June 30 extension, setting up the bill for probable passage today before the midnight deadline. Without a continuing resolution, all foreign aid would stop.

1 Dead, 19 Hurt In Crash

CANTON, Ohio (AP) — A small bus carrying preschool children collided head-on with a car southeast of here today. The driver of the car was killed and the 19 children on the bus and their driver were hurt.

The children were rushed to Timken Mercy and Altman hospitals in Canton.

At Altman, 16 children were treated and released. The bus driver, Nora Mullins, 24, of Waynesburg, her daughter Christine, 5, and Tammy Nees, 3, were admitted.

Another seven children were taken to Timken Mercy. Their condition was not immediately known but a hospital spokesman said they did not appear seriously hurt.

The children in the van-type bus were on their way to a Head Start program at St. Paul's Lutheran Church in Waynesburg when the accident occurred.

Coeds Given Cash To Invest For Colleges

CLAREMONT, Calif. (AP) — Nine coeds who admittedly know little about the stock market will receive $50,000 to invest for their college, a gift to teach them financial responsibility.

"Why, some of the girls don't know the difference between Dow-Jones and Jack Jones down the street," a Scripps College woman faculty member said.

But they should, vows a Scripps' trustee, Mrs. J. Stanley Johnson of Altadena, Calif. She donated the fund for exclusive management by the coeds for the 550-member, all-women liberal arts college.

"Women as well as men can benefit from direct financial experience and responsibility," said Mrs. Johnson, active in civic groups and also a past president of the Scripps Alumnae Association.

"Women today often manage large sums of money, earn salaries and enter business professions," she said. "It's important that they know how their money can work."

The way the coeds' money will work is by consensus of a nine-student board selected among candidates in campus-wide voting. They have full authority to handle the money and can consult with any financial experts they choose.

However, Mrs. Johnson—although not a professional broker herself—set down a list of protective guidelines. They can't buy on margin, sell short or invest more than 20 per cent of their fund in any one stock.

Unsalaries, the nine coeds will meet monthly for making decisions. They will issue quarterly progress reports to the student body. Win or lose, 5 per cent of the fund will be drained off annually for student grant and loan programs.

Man Thanks War Vets Personally

MATTOON, Ill. (AP) — A few weeks ago, Alf Thompson, 78, pondered what he could do for veterans who, because of division over the Vietnam war, were returning to a country he felt had turned the military uniform into a badge of social stigma.

He began collecting lists of honorably discharged veterans from Coles County in central Illinois and telephoning them to give his personal thanks for their service in the Armed Forces.

The response, he said, has been the warmest and one of the most rewarding experiences in his life.

"Because of the division in this country these people came home unheralded and unsung," said Thompson. "They felt they had to carry their tail between their legs."

But "I have yet to hear a sour note," he adds. Thompson's personal calls have grown into a campaign he hopes will spread throughout much of the country. "You might expect some of these veterans to spill over in bitterness and say, 'Why the hell thank me. Give me a job.' Instead, they give a very warm, courteous thank you in return."

Thompson estimates that he has telephoned about 100 veterans in Illinois and an additional 100 outside the state.

Thompson, a retired oil producer who moved from Tulsa, Okla., to Mattoon more than 40 years ago, says "I'm just an old man who wants to express his gratitude for what they've done."

Federal Funds Impoundment To Hit PICCA Operation

The Pickaway County Community Action Organization (PICCA) is being phased out of operation because of a loss of federal funds it has been announced by James Stanford, director.

Stanford said the 15 member staff will be dismissed at the end of March. A skeleton crew will be maintained until the end of April to complete the phasing out operation.

"I feel we have done our job," the PICCA director stated. "But we would like to see some of the programs continue."

He is particularly hopeful that PICCA day care center and the summer head start programs continue with financial assistance from local government, churches, civic organizations, business and industry.

PICCA is an agency of the Organization for Economic Opportunity, which has been cut by President Richard Nixon by his impoundment of funds appropriated by Congress.

The loss will mean about $170,000 to the community in federal funds. But Stanford feels the real loss will be the self-help programs offered by PICCA. For the past three years PICCA has tried to have the state establish a full time employment agency here, but has been unsuccessful. However, PICCA has been able to find employment for many economically disadvantaged persons. It served as the employment bureau for 156 persons last year.

Operation Rudolph and the Senior Citizen Center are also two of the programs of PICCA. The senior citizen center has become a self sufficient organization and will not be discontinued because of the loss of funds.

The Neighborhood Youth Corps program which provided jobs for 75 children last year was a part of the community action program.

The Metropolitan Housing Authority was secured for Pickaway County by PICCA.

The local office has been in operation for 6 1/2 years. Stanford is the third director. Of the 15 staff members, ten have come from low-income backgrounds.

Stanford said the organization plans to approach City Council and the Pickaway County Commissioners to see if revenue sharing funds can be used to continue some of the programs.

Markets

NEW YORK (AP) — Stock market prices turned higher today, erasing an earlier loss in the blue-chip sector.

The Dow Jones average of 30 industrials, off more than 5 points earlier in the session, was up 2.56 to 950.48 at noon.

Analysts called the rebound largely technical, noting that the blue-chip indicator had fallen some 35 points in the last five sessions. Declining issues, however, still led advances by 7 to 4 on the New York Stock Exchange.

Newton Zinder, analyst with E.F. Hutton & Co., noted that the increase in volume signaled that a rally was in the making.

Volume leader on the Big Board was Kidde, off 1/8 to 21 3/4.

On the American Stock Exchange, the price-change index at noon was off .03 to 24.71, while the Big Board index was up .11 to 59.73.

Other Big Board issues included McDonald's, soft in recent sessions after some negative comments on the fast-food industry by an analyst, which today rebounded 3/4 to 63 3/8.

Man Thanks War Vets Personally

MATTOON, Ill. (AP) — A few weeks ago, Alf Thompson, 78, pondered what he could do for veterans who, because of division over the Vietnam war, were returning to a country he felt had turned the military uniform into a badge of social stigma.

He began collecting lists of honorably discharged veterans from Coles County in central Illinois and telephoning them to give his personal thanks for their service in the Armed Forces.

The response, he said, has been the warmest and one of the most rewarding experiences in his life.

"Because of the division in this country these people came home unheralded and unsung," said Thompson. "They felt they had to carry their tail between their legs."

But "I have yet to hear a sour note," he adds. Thompson's personal calls have grown into a campaign he hopes will spread throughout much of the country. "You might expect some of these veterans to spill over in bitterness and say, 'Why the hell thank me. Give me a job.' Instead, they give a very warm, courteous thank you in return."

Thompson estimates that he has telephoned about 100 veterans in Illinois and an additional 100 outside the state.

Thompson, a retired oil producer who moved from Tulsa, Okla., to Mattoon more than 40 years ago, says "I'm just an old man who wants to express his gratitude for what they've done."

Federal Funds Impoundment To Hit PICCA Operation

The Pickaway County Community Action Organization (PICCA) is being phased out of operation because of a loss of federal funds it has been announced by James Stanford, director.

Stanford said the 15 member staff will be dismissed at the end of March. A skeleton crew will be maintained until the end of April to complete the phasing out operation.

"I feel we have done our job," the PICCA director stated. "But we would like to see some of the programs continue."

He is particularly hopeful that PICCA day care center and the summer head start programs continue with financial assistance from local government, churches, civic organizations, business and industry.

PICCA is an agency of the Organization for Economic Opportunity, which has been cut by President Richard Nixon by his impoundment of funds appropriated by Congress.

The loss will mean about $170,000 to the community in federal funds. But Stanford feels the real loss will be the self-help programs offered by PICCA. For the past three years PICCA has tried to have the state establish a full time employment agency here, but has been unsuccessful. However, PICCA has been able to find employment for many economically disadvantaged persons. It served as the employment bureau for 156 persons last year.

Operation Rudolph and the Senior Citizen Center are also two of the programs of PICCA. The senior citizen center has become a self sufficient organization and will not be discontinued because of the loss of funds.

The Neighborhood Youth Corps program which provided jobs for 75 children last year was a part of the community action program.

The Metropolitan Housing Authority was secured for Pickaway County by PICCA.

The local office has been in operation for 6 1/2 years. Stanford is the third director. Of the 15 staff members, ten have come from low-income backgrounds.

Stanford said the organization plans to approach City Council and the Pickaway County Commissioners to see if revenue sharing funds can be used to continue some of the programs.

Court Imposes Injunctions Against Teegardins, Arledge

Injunctions have been granted to the Pickaway County Board of Health against Dr. Paul Teegardin and Clara Teegardin and Deniz Arledge.

Neither the Teegardins or Arledge were present in the court when their cases came to trial for maintaining a public nuisance and not following the orders of health board authorities.

Teegardins were charged with failing to clean and repair a property they owned on St. Paul Road in Pickaway County when ordered by the health board in May, 1972.

Arledge is owner of a property at Leistville which has been ruled unfit for human habitation. He was told not to allow the building to be occupied until it was repaired, but violated the health board's order.

Lawrence County Rate Hike Eyed

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — A Public Utilities Commission examiner has taken under study a proposed water rate increase for part of Lawrence County.

The examiner heard testimony during a hearing Tuesday and will make a recommendation to the commission, which will make the final decision.

The emergency rate increase was requested by the Lawrence County Water Co. while its formal rate hike is pending before the commission. The increase, between 8 1/2 and 15 cents per day, would affect some 2,000 customers in Burlington, Chesapeake and surrounding areas.

No More Locks On Pay Toilets

CHICAGO (AP) — A new policy has been instituted in the restrooms at Chicago's three airports, including O'Hare International, the nation's busiest.

Mayor Richard J. Daley ordered Tuesday that locks be removed from 160 pay toilets at the airports.

Aviation Commissioner William E. Downes Jr. said the airports stand to lose $125,000 a year in revenues through removal of the locks.

Girl Is Charged In Fatal Stabbing

TOLEDO, Ohio (AP) — Toledo Police have charged 19-year-old Janice McCall of Toledo with second-degree murder in the stabbing death of a neighbor girl, Barbara Allen, 17.

Police said they were also holding Janice's mother, Beatrice McCall, 42, for investigation in connection with the stabbing of 22-year-old Ronald Shelton, who was hospitalized in critical condition.

Both stabbings took place last night.

A Page Of Opinion

Phony Missed

It has become so difficult to attract doctors to rural counties in the U.S. that one small town apparently would rather have a fake doctor than none at all. Eureka, Nev., an isolated mining community with a dwindling population, felt itself fortunate when it was able to convince a doctor to settle there early last year.

For six months he practiced medicine, setting bones and dispensing medicines to the satisfaction of many of the town's 350 residents. They were pleased they no longer had to travel 75 miles to reach the nearest medical help.

Then it happened. Somebody discovered the "doctor," who also had been hired as county physician, had no license to practice medicine. Eureka's only practitioner left town one day before he was charged with practicing without a license and accepting money under false pretenses.

Little could be learned of the man's background except the American Medical Association has a report he tried to practice in Alaska before moving to Nevada. Eureka again is without medical care, but the townspeople seem more hurt than angry.

Perhaps their attitude was summed up by the justice of the peace who holds the warrants for the "doctor's" arrest, when he said, "he helped me."

Speaking Of Your Health

My 7-year-old child is in the hospital and they suspect he may have a stomach ulcer.

I have never heard of such a young child having an ulcer.

Mrs. T.A., N.J.

Dear Mrs. A.:
Only recently, more and more cases of stomach and intestinal ulcers in young children have come to the attention of doctors.

It is true that the majority of ulcers do occur in adults, but children are undoubtedly susceptible, too, to this disorder.

Many physicians perceptively find ulcers in children who complain of stomach pains over a long period of time. It is so easy to attribute these pains to green apples, pickles and ice cream, the proverbial answer to stomach ache.

As one gets older, the blood vessels tend to get somewhat narrower and a light decrease in the amount of blood to the smaller vessels in the leg may cause the sensation you describe.

There are, of course, other reasons for persistent tingling sensations. Tobacco may contract the blood vessels and produce this stypptom.

When pins and needles, numbness, and tingling are present for a long time, neurological examination is essential to rule out other than circulatory conditions.

Muscle cramps that occur during the night can now be relieved by a number of excellent drugs. If such cramps accompany any of the symptoms you describe you will benefit, too, by a general physical examination.

What is the difference between fraternal twins and identical twins?
Miss F.N., Ind.

Dear Miss N.:
Fraternal twins develop from two different eggs, or "ova." Such twins may resemble each other, but with no greater exactness than any brothers or sisters. They may or may not be of the same sex.

Identical twins are fomed from a single egg, or "ovum." Such twins are always of the same sex and are truly identical in appearance with each other.

It is amazing how often the emotional and intellectual growth of identical twins parallel each other.

By JOHN CUNIFF
AP Business Analyst

Business World

NEW YORK (AP) — Two years after taking office as Pennsylvania Insurance Commissioner, Herbert Denenberg continues to be an inextinguishable volcano of comment and criticism about the Establishment and its ways.

There is nothing he enjoys more, he insists, than kicking the vested interests in the posterior. "I get a buzz out of it," he says. And so do those criticized, most of whom feel they have been attacked by a power saw.

What protects the 43-year-old lawyer and insurance expert from the frequent demands for his resignation is that he supports his criticisms with an almost constant cannonade of proof. He is often right, and he lets people know it.

Nevertheless, so steady are the dismissal demands — from the Pennsylvania Medical Society and the Association of Trial Lawyers, for example — that he offers critics a standard form letter pre-addressed to the governor.

While his job is to regulate insurance, he becomes involved in the worlds of medicine, dentistry, automotive vehicles, environment, housing and more because all are touched by insurance.

These are some of the criticisms that have angered individuals and institutions:

— There are 2 million unnecessary surgical operations each year in the United States. "Everyone screamed and hollered when I made that statement," said Denenberg in an interview, "but now it looks like the figure is 3 or 4 million."

— Five per cent of medical doctors are incompetent. Now, said the commissioner, that estimate seems conservative. "The American Medical Association itself says 5 million are alcoholics, drug addicts or mentally unstable."

— Forty per cent of insurance agents are unqualified. He hasn't withdrawn the statement. Instead, he adds now that most of the companies the agents work for aren't worth much either. "Expert buyers of insurance would probably eliminate 80 per cent of the insurance companies in the market," he said. Life, health and casualty, he was asked? "Especially life," he replied.

Moreover, said Denenberg, who is a lawyer, economist and the first to hold a professorship in property and liability insurance at the University of Pennsylvania's Wharton School of Finance, agents push ordinary life policies because they pay the highest commissions.

Since he contends that the customer's needs should dictate the policy offered, he is proposing that agents be compelled to reveal the amount they receive on each type of policy. Sometimes it is 100 per cent of the first-year premiums.

Last week Denenberg's office issued its seventh in a series of shopper's guides, which soon may be widely distributed by a commercial publisher. The first were on needless surgery, hospital costs and various types of insurance.

This one, on dentistry, begins typically: "There is evidence that much dental care is substandard." At least 15 per cent of all dentists are incompetent or dishonest, he states.

Denenberg seems a bit surprised that the resulting criticism hasn't been more severe. "We don't get the arguments we did before," he said, "because we've demonstrated our criticisms are sound."

U. S. Gives City An Old Building

ST. PAUL, Minn. (AP) — The old Federal Courts Building, constructed some 75 years ago, was transferred recently to the city of St. Paul.

It was transferred under the federal law which facilitates preservation of such buildings for historic monuments. The building is a composition of Romanesque and French Renaissance styles.

To China, With Love

By JOHN CHAMBERLAIN

On and off, but mostly on, the U.S. has had a love affair with China ever since the 1790's, when the good ship Columbia, captained by Robert Gray of Boston, carried cargoes of sea otter pelts from Oregon to Canton, where they were traded for tea and brought capital to New England that eventually built factories. Now, with Henry Kissinger's repeated and protracted hobnobbing with Chou En-lai, the love affair is apparently to be resumed.

In the 19th century, when the missionaries went to China, the love affair had mixed roots. Dr. Henry Winters Luce, the Presbyterian father of publisher Henry Luce, had high hopes of Christianizing the Confucians. Other, more mundane, people thought of pouring oil at a onesided profit into those famous Chinese lamps. Whatever the reasons, our State Department did China a great good turn by insisting on the Open-Door policy, which kept the cynical powers of Europe from gobbling up large chunks of Chinese territory.

If we followed George Washington's advice and refrained from sentimental partiality in our foreign dealings, there would never have been a Pearl Harbor. Franklin Delano Roosevelt could never forget that his Delano forebears had been hip-deep in the China trade and he could not be persuaded by Rexford Tugwell to keep clear of Far Eastern involvement. The love affair with China took on a frenzied intensity during and after World War II, when characters who disliked each other — such as Alfred Kohlberg, the Hong Kong-New York lace importer, and Henry Luce — swallowed their differences and cooperated in China relief. "I want you to love China," so Teddy White, Luce's Chungking correspondent, said to me on one of his New York visits, "so I won't tell you everything I know about it." White later became a Mao partisan, but at that time the love affair overlooked all differences.

The love affair, we must now believe, never had any strong roots in anti-Communism; we just thought of the Chinese as friendly. Not many Americans were as glib as the John Davies-John Service group in the State Department, which dressed Mao Tse-tung in the homespun of Jeffersonian agrarianism. But hope springs eternal in a checkered love affair, and it now develops that we hope Mao and his coterie will somehow prove to be Communists with a difference. We are in the course of choosing between two brands of Communism, and it is obvious that we are favoring the Peking over the Moscow variety.

If Mao and Chou En-lai behave, the new turn will be easy to sell. This country will be told by those conducting the love affair that Russia occupies the dangerous central geographical position, and must be kept from eating up the fringe nations of Western Europe, the Middle East, and the Far East. China, which is surrounded on three sides by Russia and its quasi-allies of India and North Vietnam, has need of us for the moment. If our aim, aside from extricating ourselves from Vietnam, is to scare the Soviets out of making a preemptive atomic strike at Chinese Sinkiang, then it makes sense to send Kissinger to pitch a little woo in Peking.

The argument is that the world can't afford to let atomic missiles be detonated in inner Asia; the fall-out would be lethal to Japan and North America, which are in the direct path of the great global west-east air stream. But why would a Sino-Soviet war necessarily be atomic? If the Russians were to fill the atmosphere with poison, their own Far Eastern provinces, including the port of Vladivostok and the productive Lake Baikal region, would get the lethal fall-out before Japan. And if the Chinese were to fire off the missiles, the fall-out would drift back upon them.

We stand to gain something immediate in Vietnam from the renewal of the Chinese love affair. But can it be a good long-term match? If Red China ever becomes really strong, the Japanese will have to turn to the Russians. Forgetting Taiwan for the moment, Indonesia the Philippines, Thailand, and Australia could hardly welcome a strong Communist neighbor of 700 million people, give or take an "illion."

We had a love affair with Russia in World War II, when the Nazis threatened to occupy the great central world position. The love affair turned sour after Yalta. So let's not go overboard on this business of "to Peking, with love." George Washington and Thomas Jefferson were right: sentimental partiality to other countries is not a sound basis for foreign policy.

Phony Missed

It has become so difficult to attract doctors to rural counties in the U.S. that one small town apparently would rather have a fake doctor than none at all. Eureka, Nev., an isolated mining community with a dwindling population, felt itself fortunate when it was able to convince a doctor to settle there early last year.

For six months he practiced medicine, setting bones and dispensing medicines to the satisfaction of many of the town's 350 residents. They were pleased they no longer had to travel 75 miles to reach the nearest medical help.

Then it happened. Somebody discovered the "doctor," who also had been hired as county physician, had no license to practice medicine. Eureka's only practitioner left town one day before he was charged with practicing without a license and accepting money under false pretenses.

Little could be learned of the man's background except the American Medical Association has a report he tried to practice in Alaska before moving to Nevada. Eureka again is without medical care, but the townspeople seem more hurt than angry.

Perhaps their attitude was summed up by the justice of the peace who holds the warrants for the "doctor's" arrest, when he said, "he helped me."

Speaking Of Your Health

by Lester L. Coleman, M.D.

My 7-year-old child is in the hospital and they suspect he may have a stomach ulcer.

I have never heard of such a young child having an ulcer.

Mrs. T.A., N.J.

Dear Mrs. A.:

Only recently, more and more cases of stomach and intestinal ulcers in young children have come to the attention of doctors.

It is true that the majority of ulcers do occur in adults, but children are undoubtedly susceptible, too, to this disorder.

Many physicians perceptively find ulcers in children who complain of stomach pains over a long period of time. It is so easy to attribute these pains to green apples, pickles and ice cream, the proverbial answer to stomach ache.

As one gets older, the blood vessels tend to get somewhat narrower and a light decrease in the amount of blood to the smaller vessels in the leg may cause the sensation you describe.

There are, of course, other reasons for persistent tingling sensations. Tobacco may contract the blood vessels and produce this symptom.

When pins and needles, numbness, and tingling are present for a long time, neurological examination is essential to rule out other than circulatory conditions.

Muscle cramps that occur during the night can now be relieved by a number of excellent drugs. If such cramps accompany any of the symptoms you describe you will benefit, too, by a general physical examination.

What is the difference between fraternal twins and identical twins?
Miss F.N., Ind.

Dear Miss N.:

Fraternal twins develop from two different eggs, or "ova." Such twins may resemble each other, but with no greater exactness than any brothers or sisters. They may or may not be of the same sex.

Identical twins are formed from a single egg, or "ovum." Such twins are always of the same sex and are truly identical in appearance with each other.

It is amazing how often the emotional and intellectual growth of identical twins parallel each other.

Business World

By JOHN CUNIFF

NEW YORK (AP) — Two years after taking office as Pennsylvania Insurance Commissioner, Herbert Denenberg continues to be an inextinguishable volcano of comment and criticism about the Establishment and its ways.

There is nothing he enjoys more, he insists, than kicking the vested interests in the posterior. "I get a buzz out of it," he says. And so do those criticized, most of whom feel they have been attacked by a power saw.

What protects the 43-year-old lawyer and insurance expert from the frequent demands for his resignation is that he supports his criticisms with an almost constant cannonade of proof. He is often right, and he lets people know it.

Nevertheless, so steady are the dismissal demands — from the Pennsylvania Medical Society and the Association of Trial Lawyers, for example — that he offers critics a standard form letter pre-addressed to the governor.

While his job is to regulate insurance, he becomes involved in the worlds of medicine, dentistry, automotive vehicles, environment, housing and more because all are touched by insurance.

These are some of the criticisms that have angered individuals and institutions:

— There are 2 million unnecessary surgical operations each year in the United States. "Everyone screamed and hollered when I made that statement," said Denenberg in an interview, "but now it looks like the figure is 3 or 4 million."

— Five per cent of medical doctors are incompetent. Now, said the commissioner, that estimate seems conservative. "The American Medical Association itself says 5 million are alcoholics, drug addicts or mentally unstable."

— Forty per cent of insurance agents are unqualified. He hasn't withdrawn the statement. Instead, he adds now that most of the companies the agents work for aren't worth much either. "Expert buyers of insurance would probably eliminate 80 per cent of the insurance companies in the market," he said. Life, health and casualty, he was asked? "Especially life," he replied.

Moreover, said Denenberg, who is a lawyer, economist and the first to hold a professorship in property and liability insurance at the University of Pennsylvania's Wharton School of Finance, agents push ordinary life policies because they pay the highest commissions.

Since he contends that the customer's needs should dictate the policy offered, he is proposing that agents be compelled to reveal the amount they receive on each type of policy. Sometimes it is 100 per cent of the first-year premiums.

Last week Denenberg's office issued its seventh in a series of shopper's guides, which soon may be widely distributed by a commercial publisher. The first were on needless surgery, hospital costs and various types of insurance.

This one, on dentistry, begins typically: "There is evidence that much dental care is substandard." At least 15 per cent of all dentists are incompetent or dishonest, he states.

Denenberg seems a bit surprised that the resulting criticism hasn't been more severe. "We don't get the arguments we did before," he said, "because we've demonstrated our criticisms are sound."

Ethnic Minorities Take On New Image On Television

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — From Fred Sanford's junkyard to Banacek's town house, ethnic minorities are getting a new image on television.

The industry not only is trying to erase the stereotypes, but is recognizing that successful characterizations and stories can be derived from ethnic sources.

The bland, faceless, neuter image of so many roles is being altered. "Banacek" quotes Polish proverbs and speaks admiringly of his heritage. Elena Verdugo is proudly Mexican-American on "Marcus Welby, M.D." "Mannix" draws on his Armenian background.

National and ethnic heritages are plumbed in "Sanford and Son," "Bridget Loves Bernie" and "All in the Family."

Dramatic and comedy series planned for next season feature blacks, Jews, Italian-Americans, Mexican-Americans and Polish-Americans.

"We're trying to change the image of minorities on television, working from the concept stage through to the filming," said Stanley Robertson, an NBC programming vice president and the highest-ranking black executive in television.

"In lead roles and in minor roles, we want to reflect minorities as they really exist in our society. Sometimes casting directors just go out and grab the people they know. But we're insisting that they put minorities in their films. If they don't, we're going to send it back to them."

Thomas Swafford, CBS vice president for program practices, said, "We're continually providing our program people with suggestions on how minority groups should be represented and I think we're seeing the results. We're getting away from the stereotypes that have been obvious and that obviously have been offensive to minorities."

The break-through is twofold: Not only are minorities, particularly blacks, being cast routinely in so-called Anglo roles, but parts and shows are now being created specifically to delineate ethnic characteristics.

"The image of blacks on television is more substantive and more realistic than blacks in the movies," says Junius Griffin, president of the Beverly Hills-Hollywood branch of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People.

"I don't want to paint the picture that television is perfect. Of course, they had prodding. But you can't turn on television now without seeing blacks involved in some kind of dramatic role. It may not be the biggest role, but why should it be?"

Jay Rodriguez, a spokesman for Nosotros, which is seeking to improve the image of Mexican-Americans in the entertainment industry, said, "I think television is making an honest effort to eliminate the stereotype Latin. Not just to play the bandits and peons, but to be included at every level. What we're looking for is a balance."

But Gilbert Avila, the immediate past president of Nosotros, believes the networks still have a long way to go. "Santa Barbara has a 30 per cent Latin population, but you don't see that reflected in 'Owen Marshall,'" he said. "The San Fernando Valley has a high Latin population, but you didn't see many on 'Adam-12' until we called it to their attention."

Avila said his group has had personal meetings with the studio heads, producers, casting directors and keeps a monthly tabulation on the number of Latin actors used. "We feel there's a lot of apathy," he said. "We'll talk to them and they'll cast a few people and then drop it. We don't like to be a thorn in their side, but that's the only way to accomplish it."

Recently the American Federation of Television and Radio Artists, the union for taped and live shows, sent a letter to producers urging them to hire more Orientals. The letter said, "Every effort should be made to afford first opportunity for employment of these qualified performers in Asiatic roles."

For too long, television's idea of an ethnic minority was someone with an English accent. After the uproar over "Amos 'n' Andy" and the Italian gangsters on "The Untouchables," the networks swept ethnic recognition under the carpet.

In the mid-1960s, under the prodding of the black civil rights movement, blacks began to appear in shows.

Bill Cosby was cast as the second lead in "I Spy" in 1965 and it set off the era of the black second banana. Then Diahann Carroll starred in "Julia," followed by Lloyd Haynes in "Room 222" and "The Bill Cosby Show." Leslie Uggams had her own variety show for a brief period. "Sesame Street" cast two black costars.

But the criticism from many blacks was that the performers were in essentially white roles reflecting white attitudes.

"Sanford and Son" changed that. "Maybe it was time for 'Sanford and Son,'" said Demond Wilson, costar of the hit NBC comedy. "I have no doubt that something will come along more outspoken. But this is where it's at now. Maybe in 22 years black youths will think of 'Sanford and Son' as 'Amos 'n' Andy.' It was a product of its time, too."

Redd Foxx, star of "Sanford and Son," said, "We're trying to show black life as honestly as possible, not just to get a laugh. I don't want to put my people down just to get a laugh. I'm as black as they come."

For next fall the networks are considering more than a dozen pilots that run the gamut of ethnic backgrounds. Among them: CBS is considering a "Shaft" series; a show from the movie "To Sir With Love," and Rosey Grier in "Big Daddy." ABC is developing "The Fuzz Brothers," a comedy-drama about two black policemen; a black family comedy called "The Furst Family of Washington," and "Pomroy's People," a drama about a black minister in a small Kentucky town. NBC has "Poor Devil," a fantasycomedy with Sammy Davis Jr., Pat Cooper in an Italian-American family comedy, "Patsy," and Herb Edelman in a Polish-American comedy, "Koska and his Family."

Gilligan Hits Budget Cuts

WASHINGTON (AP) — Gov. John J. Gilligan of Ohio said today that domestic budget cuts ordered by President Nixon could create serious problems for state and local governments.

"There's no way states and municipalities, with their limited resources, can assume a substantial" new share of responsibility for programs now receiving federal funding, Gilligan said at a news conference.

State governments already have increased their tax collections an average of 78 per cent over the past five years while the federal government has made tax cuts, Gilligan said. "The states are really trying," Gilligan said on the opening day of the midwinter national governors' conference here. "They aren't sitting back on their duffs anymore" and asking the federal government to solve all their problems.

But "there's a limit as to how long this shift can go on," he said.

Standby Lottery Slated March 8

WASHINGTON (AP) — A lottery for a standby military draft will be held here on March 8 even though it is unlikely that anyone in the lottery will be drafted.

The Selective Service System said the men receiving lottery numbers will be those reaching age 19 during 1973; that is, all men born in 1954.

"For the first time since the lottery was instituted in 1969, the men receiving lottery numbers will not face the prospect of possible induction into the armed forces," a statement said.

However, it explained that men receiving lottery numbers will be potentially vulnerable to induction for all of 1974. A processing ceiling number will be announced March 8, and those at this number or below will be classified to form a standby pool of "readily inductable men," it said.

Ethnic Minorities Take On New Image On Television

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — From Fred Sanford's junkyard to Banacek's town house, ethnic minorities are getting a new image on television.

The industry not only is trying to erase the stereotypes, but is recognizing that successful characterizations and stories can be derived from ethnic sources.

The bland, faceless, neuter image of so many roles is being altered. "Banacek" quotes Polish proverbs and speaks admiringly of his heritage. Elena Verdugo is proudly Mexican-American on "Marcus Welby, M.D." "Mannix" draws on his Armenian background.

National and ethnic heritages are plumbed in "Sanford and Son," "Bridget Loves Bernie" and "All in the Family."

Dramatic and comedy series planned for next season feature blacks, Jews, Italian-Americans, Mexican-Americans and Polish-Americans.

"We're trying to change the image of minorities on television, working from the concept stage through to the filming," said Stanley Robertson, an NBC programming vice president and the highest-ranking black executive in television.

"In lead roles and in minor roles, we want to reflect minorities as they really exist in our society. Sometimes casting directors just go out and grab the people they know. But we're insisting that they put minorities in their films. If they don't, we're going to send it back to them."

Thomas Swofford, CBS vice president for program practices, said, "We're continually providing our program people with suggestions on how minority groups should be represented and I think we're seeing the results. We're getting away from the stereotypes that have been obvious and that obviously have been offensive to minorities."

The break-through is twofold: Not only are minorities, particularly blacks, being cast routinely in so-called Anglo roles, but parts and shows are now being created specifically to delineate ethnic characteristics.

"The image of blacks on television is more substantive and more realistic than blacks in the movies," says Junius Griffin, president of the Beverly Hills-Hollywood branch of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People.

"I don't want to paint the picture that television is perfect. Of course, they had prodding. But you can't turn on television now without seeing blacks involved in some kind of dramatic role. It may not be the biggest role, but why should it be?"

Jay Rodriguez, a spokesman for Nosotros, which is seeking to improve the image of Mexican-Americans in the entertainment industry, said, "I think television is making an honest effort to eliminate the stereotype Latin. Not just to play the bandits and peons, but to be included at every level. What we're looking for is a balance."

But Gilbert Avila, the immediate past president of Nosotros, believes the networks still have a long way to go. "Santa Barbara has a 30 per cent Latin population, but you don't see that reflected in 'Owen Marshall,'" he said. "The San Fernando Valley has a high Latin population, but you didn't see many on 'Adam-12' until we called it to their attention."

Avila said his group has had personal meetings with the studio heads, producers, casting directors and keeps a monthly tabulation on the number of Latin actors used. "We feel there's a lot of apathy," he said. "We'll talk to them and they'll cast a few people and then drop it. We don't like to be a thorn in their side, but that's the only way to accomplish it."

Recently the American Federation of Television and Radio Artists, the union for taped and live shows, sent a letter to producers urging them to hire more Orientals. The letter said, "Every effort should be made to afford first opportunity for employment of these qualified performers in Asiatic roles."

For too long, television's idea of an ethnic minority was someone with an English accent. After the uproar over "Amos 'n' Andy" and the Italian gangsters on "The Untouchables," the networks swept ethnic recognition under the carpet.

In the mid-1960s, under the prodding of the black civil rights movement, blacks began to appear in shows.

Bill Cosby was cast as the second lead in "I Spy" in 1965 and it set off the era of the black second banana. Then Diannah Carroll starred in "Julia," followed by Lloyd Haynes in "Room 222" and "The Bill Cosby Show." Leslie Uggams had her own variety show for a brief period. "Sesame Street" cast two black costars.

But the criticism from many blacks was that the performers were in essentially white roles reflecting white attitudes.

"Sanford and Son" changed that. "Maybe it was time for 'Sanford and Son,'" said Demond Wilson, costar of the hit NBC comedy. "I have no doubt that something will come along more outspoken. But this is where it's at now. Maybe in 22 years black youths will think of 'Sanford and Son' as 'Amos 'n' Andy.' It was a product of its time, too."

Redd Foxx, star of 'Sanford and Son,' said, "We're trying to show black life as honestly as possible, not just to get a laugh. I don't want to put my people down just to get a laugh. I'm as black as they come."

For next fall the networks are considering more than a dozen pilots that run the gamut of ethnic backgrounds. Among them: CBS is considering a "Shaft" series; a show from the movie "To Sir With Love," and Rosey Grier in "Big Daddy." ABC is developing "The Fuzz Brothers," a comedy-drama about two black policemen; a black family comedy called "The Furst Family of Washington," and "Pomroy's People," a drama about a black minister in a small Kentucky town. NBC has "Poor Devil," a fantasycomedy with Sammy Davis Jr., Pat Cooper in an Italian-American family comedy, "Patsy," and Herb Edelman in a Polish-American comedy, "Koska and his Family."

Gilligan Hits Budget Cuts

WASHINGTON (AP) — Gov. John J. Gilligan of Ohio said today that domestic budget cuts ordered by President Nixon could create serious problems for state and local governments.

"There's no way states and municipalities, with their limited resources, can assume a substantial" new share of responsibility for programs now receiving federal funding, Gilligan said at a news conference.

State governments already have increased their tax collections an average of 78 per cent over the past five years while the federal government has made tax cuts, Gilligan said. "The states are really trying," Gilligan said on the opening day of the midwinter national governors' conference here. "They aren't sitting back on their duffs anymore" and asking the federal government to solve all their problems.

But "there's a limit as to how long this shift can go on," he said.

Good Year For Tuna

LA JOLLA, Calif. There was a 91 per cent increase in the catch off British Columbia for a total of 22,200 tons there. The center, which scouts conditions in advance and sends out fishing advisories by radio during the season, had predicted a good year.

Twenty-one members and two guests, Mrs. Dumm and Mrs. Paul Brown, answered roll call by naming their first boy friend.

The only industry they have there are the lumber yards or they can grow tobacco. The average salary for a family is $300 to $500 a year.

Mrs. Dumm explained that the people have so very little of material things but they are happy for what they do have. They have no inside plumbing, radios, televisions or electrical appliances.

Nurse Homes Sue State

CINCINNATI, Ohio (AP) — Eight southwestern Ohio nursing homes are seeking a $32,000 judgment against the Ohio Department of Health charging they were illegally coerced to install emergency power units under the threat of decertification.

The nursing homes said they were forced to install electric generators to provide emergency heat and power. They were not required to do so under Social Security, Medicaid or Medicare regulations, they said.

Named as defendants are Robert C. Kauer, Samuel Fraley, Louise Parrett and Dr. John Cashman, all of Columbus, and Russell K. Dafler, of Dayton, Ohio.

The nursing homes are Byrnes Convalescent Center Inc., Middletown; Willows Nursing Home, Pisgah; and Byrnes, Crestview, Salem Park, Kenwood Terrace, Glass and Villa Hope homes, all of Cincinnati.

First 2 Penitentiary Inmates Cost Pickaway County $95.62

By MICHELE MORRISON
Herald Staff Writer

Pickaway County's prosecution of the Evans brothers, the first two men to be entered in the Ohio State Penitentiary, cost the county $95 according to information provided by a local jurist.

Judge Sterling Lamb, of the Circleville Municipal Court, offered a copy of the cost list for the October 6, 1915 trial of John Evans and his brother David. The two were found guilty of assaulting one Levi Warner with intent to murder by a jury of 12.

A survey of the cost sheet reveals that the brothers' hearing cost the county $95.62 before it ended with the pronouncement by Judge John Thompson sending the two to the newly opened Ohio State Penitentiary.

Broken down, the 12 jurors received a total of $6.25. Fees paid to witnesses who appeared totalled $34.50. Sheriff fees were $39.27 and clerk fees $15.60.

Today, cost of a jury alone would be $90 as each of the 12 members receives $7.50 compensation per day. In 1815, the compensation rate was 50 cents a day. Clerk fees would be about $35.

In 1973, witnesses are compensated at a rate of $3 per day and five cents a mile travel expenses. Sheriff's fees vary greatly, since they are based on the number of warrants and subpoenas issued.

At present costs, the Evans trial could easily cost the county about $150. Samuel Lybrand, sheriff of Pickaway County at that time, chalked up an additional $32 in cost which he submitted to the inspectors of the Ohio Penitentiary to be paid out of the state treasury.

Lybrand listed these expenses for guarding David and John Evans on the two-day trip to the penitentiary and back:

Cost of hiring four men and horses to accompany sheriff and prisoners, $16 for two days; for the hire of two horses

Intangibles Tax Repeal Under Study

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—The Ohio Senate Ways and Means Committee is continuing its investigation into a proposal to repeal Ohio's five per cent intangibles tax on savings and investment income.

The committee this week and last heard both sides of the issue, proposed by Sen. Stanley J. Aronoff, R-8 Cincinnati.

The executive director of the Ohio Library Association Tuesday told the committee that repeal would hurt public libraries in the state.

"We're not opposed to change, but this bill would not provide enough money for libraries ...and not enough growth money," A. Chapman Parsons said.

"As I understand it, the bill would set up a replacement fund equal to 12.2 per cent of the total individual state income tax collected," he said.

two days at 37½ cents each day, $1.50; cost of dinner at Walnut plains, $1.12½; ferrying bigbilly, 50 cents expense; to horse feeding and dinner on return, $1.12; sheriff's fees for mileage (50 miles round trip at 10 cents a mile), $5.

Total expense of a two day trip which takes about an hour and a half today was $32.25.

Judge Lamb's sheet also tells this tale of the event which led to their arrest, presumably from old records of the county court:

"It appeared in evidence that prisoners (Evans brothers) professed friendship for the prosecutor and the person injured (Levi Warner) on the morning immediately before the crime was committed, and after pressing him to drink liquor with them, solicited and prevailed with him to accompany them to their uncle's, a short distance from the place where they were.

"In progressing less than a mile from the place from whence they set out, they stopped by a thicket and whilst prosecutor stepped aside on a necessary occasion, David Evans, one of the prisoners, as prosecutor supposed from their separation, came behind and struck him a violent blow with a club on the left shoulder which caused him to stagger toward the other prisoner and immediately received a very violent one on the left side of the head and cut and bruised the prosecutor so that he remained helpless and partly insensible in a thicket for some time. The prisoners, having desisted from beating and stepped some short distance from him, discovered him move when one of the prisoners went to him and beat him again.

"When he was discovered and brought back again to the place from whence he and the prisoners set out and lay under the care of a physician, when the prisoners returned and one being charged by prosecutor of the violence, prisoner John used imprecations and threats indicating great animosity and revenge — the general character of prisoners as known to the court is immoral."

That record has the seal of Judges Thompson, William Seymour and Thomas Barr.

John and David became the state's first — Numbers 1 and 2 prisoners of the first state penal institution.

Convict Youth Of Oxford Strangulation

HAMILTON, Ohio (AP)—Lionel G. Allen, 18, convicted of second-degree murder in the strangulation slaying of a retired Oxford school teacher, will seek a new trial, his attorneys said.

Allen was convicted by a three-judge panel Tuesday in Butler County Common Pleas Court.

He was scheduled to appear for a mandatory life sentence today.

Allen contended he was insane from using LSD on Sept. 22, when Edna Swan, 71, was killed in her Oxford home.

A psychiatrist testified that Allen, although sane when examined, apparently had suffered from a toxic psychosis induced by LSD at the time of the slaying.

Dr. Robert McDevitt said Allen probably knew the act was wrong, but was powerless to refrain from it.

The prosecution contended he was

Loitering Brought Against Boy, 16

Sheriff Deputies filed charges of loitering and acting in an immoral manner against a local youth, age 16, who was found sleeping in the public restrooms in the county courthouse.

For acting in a manner to injure or endanger the moral of himself or others, the youth was ordered to the Ohio Youth Commission in Columbus. However that sentence was suspended and the boy was placed on probation for three years. He also spent 28 days in detention.

Cited for contributing to the youth's delinquency and unruliness, the court found 18-year-old Mary R. O'Dell, of Scoto St., guilty. Her 20-day sentence in the Pickaway County Jail was suspended, but the court fined her $50 and placed her on probation for one year.

surprised by Miss Swan when he entered the house to burglarize it. They said he sought items to sell to buy drugs.

Sentence Youth On Rape Charge

William Stanley Milligan, Lancaster, who was charged with Gary Swingle in the rape and assault with a rifle of two OSU coeds, was placed in the permanent custody of the Ohio Youth Commission.

Judge Guy Cline of the Juvenile Court ordered the young man sent to the Youth Commission, although he reached his 18th birthday Feb. 14. He entered a plea of guilty to the charge in October of last year.

The fate of Swingle has not yet been determined. After his case was ruled a mistrial and the jury dismissed in January, an examination was ordered by the court to be made by three psychiatrists.

Swingle, who is 19, faces a possible sentence in Mansfield Reformatory. Since Milligan was 17 at the time the alleged offense took place, his case remains with the juvenile authorities.

two days at 37½ cents each day, $1.50; cost of dinner at Walnut plains, $1.12½; ferrying bigbely, 50 cents expense; to horse feeding and dinner on return, $1.12; sheriff's fees for mileage (50 miles round trip at 10 cents a mile), $.50.

Total expense of a two day trip which takes about an hour and a half today was $32.25.

Judge Lamb's sheet also tells this tale of the event which led to their arrest, presumably from old records of the county court:

"It appeared in evidence that prisoners (Evans brothers) professed friendship for the prosecutor and the person injured (Levi Warner) on the morning immediately before the crime was committed, and after pressing him to drink liquor with them, solicited and prevailed with him to accompany them to their uncle's, a short distance from the place where they were.

"In progressing less than a mile from the place from whence they set out, they stopped by a thicket and whilst prosecutor stepped aside on a necessary occasion, David Evans, one of the prisoners, as prosecutor supposed from their separation, came behind and struck him a violent blow with a club on the left shoulder which caused him to stagger toward the other prisoner and immediately received a very violent one on the left side of the head and cut and bruised the prosecutor so that he remained helpless and partly insensible in a thicket for some time. The prisoners, having desisted from beating and stepped some short distance from him, discovered him move when one of the prisoners went to him and beat him again.

"When he was discovered and brought back again to the place from whence he and the prisoners set out and lay under the care of a physician, when the prisoners returned and one being charged by prosecutor of the violence, prisoner John used imprecations and threats indicating great animosity and revenge — the general character of prisoners as known to the court is immoral."

That record has the seal of Judges Thompson, William Seymour and Thomas Barr.

John and David became the state's first — Numbers 1 and 2 prisoners of the first state penal institution.

Convict Youth Of Oxford Strangulation

HAMILTON, Ohio (AP)—Lionel G. Allen, 18, convicted of second-degree murder in the strangulation slaying of a retired Oxford school teacher, will seek a new trial, his attorneys said.

Allen was convicted by a three-judge panel Tuesday in Butler County Common Pleas Court.

He was scheduled to appear for a mandatory life sentence today.

Allen contended he was insane from using LSD on Sept. 22, when Edna Swan, 71, was killed in her Oxford home.

A psychiatrist testified that Allen, although sane when examined, apparently had suffered from a toxic psychosis induced by LSD at the time of the slaying.

Dr. Robert McDevitt said Allen probably knew the act was wrong, but was powerless to refrain from it.

The prosecution contended he was

Loitering Brought Against Boy, 16

Sheriff Deputies filed charges of loitering and acting in an immoral manner against a local youth, age 16, who was found sleeping in the public restrooms in the county courthouse.

For acting in a manner to injure or endanger the moral of himself or others, the youth was ordered to the Ohio Youth Commission in Columbus. However that sentence was suspended and the boy was placed on probation for three years. He also spent 28 days in detention.

Cited for contributing to the youth's delinquency and unruliness, the court found 18-year-old Mary R. O'Dell, of Scoto St., guilty. Her 20-day sentence in the Pickaway County Jail was suspended, but the court fined her $50 and placed her on probation for one year.

surprised by Miss Swan when he entered the house to burglarize it. They said he sought items to sell to buy drugs.

Sentence Youth On Rape Charge

William Stanley Milligan, Lancaster, who was charged with Gary Swingle in the rape and assault with a rifle of two OSU coeds, was placed in the permanent custody of the Ohio Youth Commission.

Judge Guy Cline of the Juvenile Court ordered the young man sent to the Youth Commission, although he reached his 18th birthday Feb. 14. He entered a plea of guilty to the charge in October of last year.

The fate of Swingle has not yet been determined. After his case was ruled a mistrial and the jury dismissed in January, an examination was ordered by the court to be made by three psychiatrists.

Swingle, who is 19, faces a possible sentence in Mansfield Reformatory. Since Milligan was 17 at the time the alleged offense took place, his case remains with the juvenile authorities.

1 cup wine vinegar or cider vinegar	2 tsp. leaf thyme, crumbled

OHIO WEATHER SUMMARY
COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)— Northern sections of Ohio got clear skies and very light winds Tuesday night and they combined to drop temperatures to as low as 11 and 12 degrees in Toledo and Youngstown, respectively.
Those low readings came just before dawn. In southern Ohio where cloudy skies were the rule readings ranged upward to 33 at Cincinnati and Ironton.
The morning weather chart showed a ridge of high pressure extended from New England to the lower Ohio Valley, the National Weather Service said. This high will drift eastward during the day, reaching the Atlantic Coast Thursday. A low pressure system moving across the southern Rockies Wednesday morning will progress to Oklahoma by Thursday morning.
The weather service said temperatures will climb to the upper 30s and 40s Wednesday afternoon as skies clear over the southern counties. Milder weather is in store for Wednesday night with lows in the low and mid 30s. Skies will be clouding over again Thursday ahead of the Oklahoma low.
The rising trend in temperatures is expected to continue with the mercury reaching the 40s and 50s Thursday afternoon. Continued eastward movement of the low poses a threat of showers for the latter part of the week.

Ohio Sets Up Death Penalty Again

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — After five years of study, the outlawed death penalty comes back to Ohio at the end of the year in a streamlined compromise designed to win amnesty from the U.S. Supreme Court.

Only cases yet unfilled will tell if the death penalty can stay alive. Last-minute legislative action delayed the return of the death penalty until Jan. 1, 1974, along with other parts of the first complete revision of Ohio's criminal laws in 158 years.

The death penalty had been a part of an interim package of changes that would have taken effect 90 days after Gov. John J. Gilligan's signature last Dec. 22. It was taken out of the completed bill at the last minute.

One thing is certain: it's going to be more difficult to get a killer executed for his crime. Only three kinds of homicide draw the permanent punishment in the new code, compared to eight types under the present law.

Capital murder newly defined consists of premeditated murder, murder by concealed weapon and a felony murder.

"Death can be imposed," said Rep. Alan Norris, R-27 Westerville, "only if one of seven aggravating circumstances is present."

The seven paths to death: Assassination of the President or the Governor, or those elected in succession but who have not taken office; murder for hire or gain; murder while escaping; murder while a prisoner; previous conviction for murder; murder of a law officer, or murder while committing kidnaping, rape, arson, robbery or burglary.

Norris, who introduced the bill that revised the code, said, "Should the jury return a guilty verdict, the verdict must state a separate finding of fact as to whether any of the aggravating circumstances has been proved beyond a reasonable doubt."

"If so, the trial judge must then sentence the defendant to life imprisonment if, after hearings, any of three listed mitigating circumstances is established by a preponderance of the evidence. Otherwise, the judge must impose the death penalty."

The three paths to life in prison: The victim induced or facilitated the killing, the killer was under duress, coercion or strong provocation or the primary cause of the crime was the prisoner's psychosis or mental deficiency.

Life under the new code is 20 years to life, making the prisoner eligible for parole after 13 years of good behavior.

Whatever the rules by which the death penalty once more can be imposed, it seems certain that controversy remains.

The Technical Committee which wrote the first draft of the new criminal code reported: "Opinions were sharply divided, and it became obvious after prolonged debate that neither side was prepared to budge."

Purcell arrived home Tuesday evening after almost nine years away—nearly eight of them spent as a prisoner of war in North Vietnam.

He and his wife, Marian, and their five children flew home Tuesday from Wright Patterson Air Base in Ohio, where he had undergone medical treatment and debriefing for the last 11 days.

Marian Purcell had bought the house while her husband was imprisoned.

"Holy Mackerel!" he said as he looked it over.

Then he and his family went inside. Purcell reappeared a short time later on a second-story balcony and spoke to friends and neighbors who were there to welcome him home.

"I'm going inside now and have a glass of eggnog," he told them, "It's been waiting for me for a long time."

The colonel told well-wishers that he is looking forward to celebrating the

False Alarm

Delays Firemen

At Real Blaze

CINCINNATI, Ohio (AP)— Policemen guided 20 persons from a fire in a Westwood area apartment building Tuesday night while firemen were delayed answering a false alarm that had been sounded minutes earlier.

Pt. Robert Schlinkert said he was "very upset" about the false alarm.

"If police hadn't been there to help people out of the building, I think there would have been some injuries," he said.

A false alarm came in two minutes before the alarm for the apartment building. Firemen from a neighboring district were dispatched.

The seven paths to death: Assassination of the President or the Governor, or those elected in succession but who have not taken office; murder for hire or gain; murder while escaping; murder while a prisoner; previous conviction for murder; murder of a law officer, or murder while committing kidnapping, rape, arson, robbery or burglary.

Norris, who introduced the bill that revised the code, said, "Should the jury return a guilty verdict, the verdict must state a separate finding of fact as to whether any of the aggravating circumstances has been proved beyond a reasonable doubt."

"If so, the trial judge must then sentence the defendant to life imprisonment if, after hearings, any of three listed mitigating circumstances is established by a preponderance of the evidence. Otherwise, the judge must impose the death penalty."

The three paths to life in prison: The victim induced or facilitated the killing, the killer was under duress, coercion or strong provocation or the primary cause of the crime was the prisoner's psychosis or mental deficiency.

Life under the new code is 20 years to life, making the prisoner eligible for parole after 13 years of good behavior.

Whatever the rules by which the death penalty once more can be imposed, it seems certain that controversy remains.

The Technical Committee which wrote the first draft of the new criminal code reported: "Opinions were sharply divided, and it became obvious after prolonged debate that neither side was prepared to budge."

Purcell arrived home Tuesday evening after almost nine years away—nearly eight of them spent as a prisoner of war in North Vietnam.

He and his wife, Marian, and their five children flew home Tuesday from Wright Patterson Air Base in Ohio, where he had undergone medical treatment and debriefing for the last 11 days.

Marian Purcell had bought the house while her husband was imprisoned.

"Holy Mackerel!" he said as he looked it over.

Then he and his family went inside. Purcell reappeared a short time later on a second-story balcony and spoke to friends and neighbors who were there to welcome him home.

"I'm going inside now and have a glass of eggnog," he told them, "It's been waiting for me for a long time."

The colonel told well-wishers that he is looking forward to celebrating the eight or nine Christmases he missed with his family—and said he might just celebrate one day for the next eight or nine days.

Purcell said the family plans a trip to Florida, and said he is looking forward to just lying on a beach for a few days.

He plans to enter a special program to train freed POWs to fly again, and said he is eager to renew his military career.

Purcell had told a news conference at the Ohio air force base earlier in the day that he would be willing to fly in combat, if necessary. He was shot down piloting an F-105 Thunderchief jet over North Vietnam on July 27, 1965.

Although he sidestepped questions about prison life and treatment of POWs, he answered queries on subjects ranging from amnesty to demonstrations. He also explained the brief prayer he said for Lt. William Calley earlier this month.

Purcell said, "I was sympathetic about him just as I would be about any fighting man. The story behind the story is that the infraction took place in an emotional atmosphere that could never be reproduced in an American courtroom."

False Alarm

Delays Firemen

At Real Blaze

CINCINNATI, Ohio (AP)—Policemen guided 20 persons from a fire in a Westwood area apartment building Tuesday night while firemen were delayed answering a false alarm that had been sounded minutes earlier.

Pt. Robert Schlinkert said he was "very upset" about the false alarm.

"If police hadn't been there to help people out of the building, I think there would have been some injuries," he said.

A false alarm came in two minutes before the alarm for the apartment building. Firemen from a neighboring district were dispatched.

WASHINGTON (AP) — A year after the problem was brought to its attention the Food and Drug Administration is recalling thousands of bottles of a sugar solution that, an authority on its use says, is linked to several patient deaths and injuries.

Medical experts say the 7-per-cent dextrose solution, when improperly administered in peritoneal dialysis, can lead to rapid dehydration, shock, coma, convulsions and death.

Peritoneal dialysis involves discharging the sugar solution into a patient's abdominal cavity and then draining it, to remove wastes when his kidneys fail to do the job.

The recall, limited largely to hospitals, involves existing stocks of the 7-per-cent solution manufactured by Abbott, Travenol, McGaw and Cutter laboratories.

The recall amounts to a virtual ban because "there is no justification for approving continued marketing," the FDA said.

Most companies stopped manufacturing the 7-per-cent solution, the agency said, after an informal meeting in Chicago early last year of FDA and industry representatives and physicians concerned with kidney and peritoneal dialysis.

The FDA said Tuesday it has no knowledge of deaths linked to the solution and at the time of the meeting last year had "felt no need for immediate action."

Dr. Henry Tenckhoff, associate professor at the University of Washington School of Medicine in Seattle, said there have been "a number of reports of deaths clearly related to inappropriate administration of these solutions."

Gray Denies FBI Speeches During Campaign 'Political'

WASHINGTON (AP) — Acting FBI director L. Patrick Gray III today denied that he made political speeches for President Nixon during last fall's election campaign.

Gray told the Senate Judiciary Committee, which is considering his nomination to be permanent FBI director, that his many speeches last year were made in conjunction with department business.

Sour Talk From Land Of Milk And Honey

TEL AVIV (AP) — Israeli bee-keepers say they've been stung. And the land of milk and honey may be a little less sweet for a while because of it.

The problem isn't a lack of honey. Just the opposite — there's too much. So bee-keepers took their produce off the market to drive up prices.

In the past the bee-keepers produced a surplus of honey, and prices were frozen by government controls at the 1969 level of 40 cents a pound.

The bee-keepers say it costs them almost twice as much to produce honey now, and some went out of business because they couldn't raise their prices.

St. Valentine's Day Once Banned By Law

KANSAS CITY (AP) — St. Valentine's Day celebrations were once banned by law in England and America for 11 years, according to Hallmark historians.

Festivities had been held on Valentine's Day in Britain since at least 1446, with gift giving and the exchange of paper Valentines. But in 1649 its observance was forbidden by Oliver Cromwell, the country's puritan leader, who thought the Valentine custom immoral. Valentine celebrations were totally suppressed in Britain and the American colonies until King Charles II came to the throne in 1660.

Amendment Brings Overflow Crowd

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Ohio's legislative facilities were not built to accommodate the kinds of crowds turning out for hearings on the federal women's rights amendment to the U.S. Constitution.

Tuesday night, for the third week in a row, they came by the hundreds—with flags, banners, petitions—and filled up the small House hearing room (300 capacity, including standers) two hours before the meeting started.

More than 200 others were turned away, and went down into the Statehouse rotunda to listen on loudspeakers. Tuesday's hearing was for proponents, but the scene was the same last week when opponents testified.

Rep. Michael Del Bane, D-56 Hubbard, in his first term as chairman of the House State Government Committee, which is considering the amendment, admits his strategy hasn't worked.

For almost a month, Del Bane has sought to rotate testimony from each side on Tuesday nights. "They all come every week. The strategy didn't work," said Del Bane. Signs and badges each week proved he is right.

The committee chairman insists, however, that everyone "is going to be heard, if only through a spokesman." Del Bane plans another opposition hearing next week "then we're going to take a week off, and see where we stand."

He wants his committee to recommend the measure, sending it on to the House Rules Committee to await assignment to a floor vote. "I think we have the votes to get it out, on the basis of the polling I've done. I would like to see the entire House vote on this thing because it has so many sides to it. Of course, I don't know what the Rules Committee might do," he said.

The proposal died last year in the Senate Rules Committee.

A national leader in the fight to ratify the amendment to ban discrimination on the basis of sex testified at the latest hearing. Rep. Martha Griffiths, D-Mich., told a news conference and later the committee that the opponents are "misguided" and "emotional."

Mrs. Griffiths discounted claims that women would lose such rights as guaranteed family support by husbands. These rights are not now in the law, "only in English common law," she asserted. She said the U.S. Constitution "only guarantees the rights of men and aliens."

Dog Finds Dead Infant

CLEVELAND, Ohio (AP)—Cleveland police are seeking the mother of a dead infant which a dog apparently picked up in Calvary Cemetery.

An East Side couple, Mr. and Mrs. Jerry Daniels, spotted the dog carrying the newborn child in its mouth as they were driving down the street near their home Tuesday.

Mrs. Daniels said the dog "looked like it was carrying a doll....Then I noticed the umbilical cord. I jumped out and yelled 'drop it!' The dog ran into the driveway of a house...dropped the baby and ran...."

Police found a trail of blood leading to the cemetery about a block away. In the cemetery they found a black plastic bag and evidence that the baby had been in the bag.

The coroner's office said the baby girl had been born after a full-term pregnancy.

City School Board Adopts Calendar At Brief Session

Matters presented to the Circleville Board of Education Tuesday were few and the meeting brief.

A resignation was accepted from Water Gruesser, a history teacher at Circleville High after the end of the current school year.

Also resigning was bus driver Bob Liston. Liston requested to be removed from a daily route and placed on the substitute driver list as of March 1. Liston's son Bruce was hired as full-time driver also effective March 1.

A 1973-74 school calendar adopted by the board at the meeting shows classes begin for students on Sept. 5. Vacations will be Oct. 18 and 19 — Pumpkin Show; Oct. 26 — Central Ohio Teachers Assn. meeting; Nov. 22-23 — Thanksgiving; Dec. 22 to Jan. 1 — Christmas vacation; Feb. 18 — Washington-Lincoln birthday; April 11-15 — Spring vacation; May 27 — Memorial Day.

Real Estate Commission Opens Probe

CINCINNATI, Ohio (AP)—The Ohio Real Estate Commission will hold a public hearing in Columbus March 9 to investigate practices in connection with the issuance of licenses.

John L. Tranter, president of the commission, said here Tuesday that the hearing will be held in the Ohio Department of Commerce Building.

He said past practices are being questioned in light of reports of some former state officials receiving sales or brokers licenses allegedly without going through normal procedures.

Tranter said that Ohio Commerce Director Dennis Shaul, a Democrat, will participate in the investigation. Shaul had been critical of procedures surrounding the issuance of a broker's license to former Gov. James A. Rhodes in 1971, shortly before Rhodes left office.

Rhodes said previously he took an oral examination for the license. Normally, written tests are given.

Tranter said that among those called to testify will be state real estate commissioners and members of the commerce department's division of real estate.

The Science Club of Circleville High School requested permission of the board to be absent from school to take their annual trip. This year, the club plans to visit Toronto, Canada, from April 11 through 15. This is the fifth year the Science Club has taken tours out of state to tour manufacturing and research facilities.

Five teacher were given approval for attendance at professional meetings. Steve Brudzinski and Richard Neel will be attending the March 9 Industrial Arts meeting in Columbus; Joyce Miller will attend the Workshop for Improving Instruction, a program concerned with low achievers in grades 5 through 9. It will be held March 14 in Columbus.

Dale Harver and Brent Bell were excused for a half-day to attend the Sectional Wrestling Tournament at Marysville on Feb. 23.

The board adjourned to meet later this week to award contracts for roof repair.

Vacations will be Oct. 18 and 19 — Pumpkin Show; Oct. 26 — Central Ohio Teachers Assn. meeting; Nov. 22-23 — Thanksgiving; Dec. 22 to Jan. 1 — Christmas vacation; Feb. 18 — Washington-Lincoln birthday; April 11-15 — Spring vacation; May 27 — Memorial Day.

Real Estate Commission Opens Probe

CINCINNATI, Ohio (AP)—The Ohio Real Estate Commission will hold a public hearing in Columbus March 9 to investigate practices in connection with the issuance of licenses.

John L. Tranter, president of the commission, said here Tuesday that the hearing will be held in the Ohio Department of Commerce Building.

He said past practices are being questioned in light of reports of some former state officials receiving sales or brokers licenses allegedly without going through normal procedures.

Tranter said that Ohio Commerce Director Dennis Shaul, a Democrat, will participate in the investigation. Shaul had been critical of procedures surrounding the issuance of a broker's license to former Gov. James A. Rhodes in 1971, shortly before Rhodes left office.

Rhodes said previously he took an oral examination for the license. Normally, written tests are given.

Tranter said that among those called to testify will be state real estate commissioners and members of the commerce department's division of real estate.

Light rains dampened parts of California and Nevada. Dense fog formed over the Plains, the Mississippi Valley and the central Appalachians.

Temperatures ranged from -19 at Houlton, Maine, to 66 at Blythe, Calif.

The session Tuesday of the 125-nation body showed that an investigation was agreeable to all. Israel itself approved, asking for an impartial, "calm and sober" probe into why its jet pilots fired on the airliner over the territory east of the Suez Canal that it has occupied since 1967.

American and some other Western delegates sought to temper the condemnation part of the resolution in the interests of cooling Middle East tension. They hoped for a compromise resolution deploring the loss of 106 lives in the tragedy and urging efforts to avert such incidents in the future.

However, countries critical of Israel hold a commanding majority in the organization.

The Israeli government contends that the downing of the plane was a tragic accident caused by mistakes on both sides, but that the French pilot of the airliner and the Cairo control tower were chiefly to blame.

The Soviet delegate charged at the session Tuesday that Israel had made a "premeditated attack" on the airliner.

The Nixon administration is telling federal administrators in every region of the country to hold special briefings for governors and mayors on the budget, which some state and local officials have sharply criticized for its proposed domestic spending cutbacks.

Meantime, the White House is studying ways to get a greater hearing for those mayors around the country who support the President's budget.

proposals as an effort to return power from the federal government to state and local governments.

The two efforts amount to a new administration push to get its side of the story across after a month of criticism from a dozen mayors on the bipartisan Legislative Action Committee of the U.S. Conference of Mayors. At a congressional hearing Tuesday, several Democratic governors also voiced their criticism of the budget.

On Tuesday, Frederic V. Malek, deputy director of the Office of Management and Budget, issued a memorandum to the chairmen of the 10 federal regional councils to call the budget briefings, but some of them had already heard of it and begun work.

The councils, composed of the regional administrators of seven federal domestic departments, coordinate federal policy in each of 10 areas of the nation.

The New York regional council, which came up with the idea for such meetings two weeks ago, has scheduled them to begin March 6 in New Jersey with later ones in other parts of the region.

The Chicago regional council has telephoned governors and mayors of cities over 500,000 population in its five states inviting them to a briefing March 12 in Chicago. Subsequent meetings for mayors of smaller cities and county executives are planned in each state during March.

"We thought it would be well to acquaint them with the impact of the budget," regional council chairman Norman Erbe said. "Much of the COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — A legal brief seeking to require appointment of free legal counsel for people facing commitment to mental hospitals was filed with the Supreme Court Tuesday by the American Civil Liberties Union.

The ACLU cited a study that showed 90 per cent of those committed did not have counsel and said representation is mandatory under the due process clause of the 14th Amendment of the U.S. Constitution.

criticism so far has been premature. The attitude has been too negative around the country and in the media. It's time to look at the positive things and what programs are continuing."

Ken Cole, executive director of President Nixon's Domestic Council, said this effort was critical, because "so many of the details have not reached state and local officials."

"There are many horror stories about what we are planning to do to the Office of Economic Opportunity," Cole said. "All of its programs which we think serve the poor are being delegated to other agencies and they will have more money."

Relatives Of U.S. POWs Angry At New Red Delays

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
"I'm mad as hell. My dad was supposed to get out in this next batch. It's the same old thing over and over," said the son of an American prisoner of war held in Vietnam.

"You reach a high plateau of expectation and then fall flat on your face again. They give you every expectation they'll come through and then they just let you down every time," 17-year-old Peter Profiliet of Palo Alto, Calif., said Tuesday.

The boy's father, Navy Capt. Leon T. Profiliet, who was captured in 1967, was believed to be among the POW group

U.S. officials expected to be freed this week. North Vietnam, however, delayed the releases.

The younger Profiliet put the fault for the delay "primarily on the North Vietnamese." He said they were "over-sensitive to United States and South Vietnamese truce infractions."

Helen Duarte, the wife of a POW, said, "It seems like for all my seven years experience it's been nothing but harassment. They seem to like to torture people and this is proof of it."

"They weren't in any hurry at all to release even the first group. It just seems they don't want to give up our men. It's almost like they are hostages being held until North Vietnam gets everything they want," she said at Grissom Air Force Base, Ind..

Her husband, Lt. Col. David Duarte, was expected to be released in the latest group because of his 7½ years in captivity.

Not all of those affected by the delay were angry.

Mrs. Michael Kerr of Port Angeles, Wash., has waited six years for her husband and just dug a little deeper into her store of patience.

"I think everything can be worked out," she said, "and I just have to be patient and wait." She said she was upset but not angry that the release of Kerr, an Air Force captain, was delayed.

Joanne Byrns, whose husband, Air Force Capt. William Byrns, has been a prisoner of war less than a year, also was confident.

"My faith is not in people but in the Lord. I trust that the Lord will bring Bill home in His own time," she said at her Warrenton, Mo., home.

Double Vote Punishment Local Matter

CINCINNATI, Ohio (AP) — Legal action, if any, will be a local matter in the case of a college student from Chicago, Ill. who voted both there and in Ohio last November.

Ohio Secretary of State Ted W. Brown so ruled following a hearing conducted by him at the Hamilton County Board of Elections, Tuesday.

Hamilton County Prosecutor Simon L. Leis Jr., ill with flu, was not available for comment.

John O'Brien, a native of Chicago, admitted at the hearing that he voted an absentee ballot for Cook County, Illinois, then voted in Cincinnati.

He said he feared his Illinois ballot would not arrive in time to be counted in the presidential election, so he voted here.

The Xavier University student's ballots were counted in both places.

"I can assure you it was not deliberate," O'Brien told Brown, "I did not intend to vote twice."

The jury political science major could face a fine of $50 to $1,000, officials said.

Brown said his office had obtained the names of 1,000 Ohioans who received absentee ballots from other states. He did not explain how he determined who had received them.

Asked if all 1,000 were out-of-state students attending Ohio colleges, Brown replied: "No, we have two people in rest homes."

Vet Debunks Some Myths About Pets

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—The president-elect of the Ohio Veterinary Medical Association says some beliefs commonly held by pet owners are not based on fact.

Dr. David M. Drenan says a cold, wet nose is not a reliable sign of a dog's general health. Bright eyes and a glossy coat are better indications.

It also isn't true that veterinarians have to be smarter than physicians because animals can't tell you what is wrong with them, he said, noting "pets can't lie either—although their owners can."

And all-meat dog foods are not better for pets than "a blend of meat and cereal," Drenan said.

Drenan, a veterinarian from Tallmadge, a suburb of Akron, will succeed Dr. Charles W. Miller of Crestline as OVMA president. The 1,000-member association is meeting here in convention this week.

Drenan said overweight pets are becoming a problem in Ohio. More than half the pets in the state are "over-fed and under-exercised," he said.

But correcting the problem for animals is much easier than it is for their owners. Diet pet foods are available, he said, and "dogs can't cheat by sneaking down and opening the refrigerator at night to get a snack."

Park Winning Election Easily In South Korea

SEOUL, Korea (AP) — President Chung Hee Park's Democratic Republican party was assured a two-thirds majority in the National Assembly today with about 70 per cent of the returns in from the national election.

The government party had won 56 seats and was leading in 17 other districts. Since the president appoints 73 of the 219 assembly members, it appeared that Park's forces would get 146 seats.

The New Democratic party had won 32 seats and was leading in 20 races. The Democratic Unification party won one seat and led for two, while independents had won five and led for the other 13.

One election surprise was the comparatively strong showing of Park's Democratic Republicans in Seoul, which normally goes heavily for the opposition. Early returns gave the government party seven seats, the same as the New Democrats.

Relatives Of U.S. POWs Angry At New Red Delays

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
"I'm mad as hell. My dad was supposed to get out in this next batch. It's the same old thing over and over," said the son of an American prisoner of war held in Vietnam.

"You reach a high plateau of expectation and then fall flat on your face again. They give you every expectation they'll come through and then they just let you down every time," 17-year-old Peter Profiliet of Palo Alto, Calif., said Tuesday.

The boy's father, Navy Capt. Leon T. Profiliet, who was captured in 1967, was believed to be among the POW group

U.S. officials expected to be freed this week. North Vietnam, however, delayed the releases.

The younger Profiliet put the fault for the delay "primarily on the North Vietnamese." He said they were "over-sensitive to United States and South Vietnamese truce infractions."

Helen Duart, the wife of a POW, said, "It seems like for all my seven years experience it's been nothing but harassment. They seem to like to torture people and this is proof of it."

"They weren't in any hurry at all to release even the first group. It just seems they don't want to give up our men. It's almost like they are hostages being held until North Vietnam gets everything they want," she said at Grissom Air Force Base, Ind..

Her husband, Lt. Col. David Duart, was expected to be released in the latest group because of his 7½ years in captivity.

Not all of those affected by the delay were angry.

Mrs. Michael Kerr of Port Angeles, Wash., has waited six years for her husband and just dug a little deeper into her store of patience.

"I think everything can be worked out," she said, "and I just have to be patient and wait." She said she was upset but not angry that the release of Kerr, an Air Force captain, was delayed.

Joanne Byrns, whose husband, Air Force Capt. William Byrns, has been a prisoner of war less than a year, also was confident.

"My faith is not in people but in the Lord. I trust that the Lord will bring Bill home in His own time," she said at her Warrenton, Mo., home.

Double Vote Punishment Local Matter

CINCINNATI, Ohio (AP) — Legal action, if any, will be a local matter in the case of a college student from Chicago, Ill. who voted both there and in Ohio last November.

Ohio Secretary of State Ted W. Brown so ruled following a hearing conducted by him at the Hamilton County Board of Elections, Tuesday.

Hamilton County Prosecutor Simon L. Leis Jr., ill with flu, was not available for comment.

John O'Brien, a native of Chicago, admitted at the hearing that he voted an absentee ballot for Cook County, Illinois, then voted in Cincinnati.

He said he feared his Illinois ballot would not arrive in time to be counted in the presidential election, so he voted here.

The Xavier University student's ballots were counted in both places.

"I can assure you it was not deliberate," O'Brien told Brown, "I did not intend to vote twice."

The jury political science major could face a fine of $50 to $1,000, officials said.

Brown said his office had obtained the names of 1,000 Ohioans who received absentee ballots from other states. He did not explain how he determined who had received them.

Asked if all 1,000 were out-of-state students attending Ohio colleges, Brown replied: "No, we have two people in rest homes."

team keeps playing like there's no tomorrow—figuratively and literally. While the nation's No. 2 power wheels on undefeated, it's all academic because a two-year suspension has locked the Wolfpack out of the NCAA playoffs. For that reason, North Carolina Coach Dean Smith was not ready to quit after losing an 82-78 thriller to North Carolina State Tuesday night. "We'd welcome the chance to play them again," said Smith, whose Tar Heels have lost three close decisions to the Wolfpack this season. The two could meet in the madcap Atlantic Coast Conference playoffs, which decide the ACC representative to the NCAA's post-season party. But even if North Carolina State winds up the season undefeated in its 25th game Saturday against Wake Forest and then goes on to sweep through the tough ACC playoffs, the NCAA is a no-no for the Wolfpack.

They were put on probation by the NCAA after using alleged illegal recruiting tactics to get star David Thompson. So Smith was looking forward to another meeting with his arch rivals, hopefully in the ACC playoff finale. That would mean, of course, that seventh-ranked North Carolina would go to the prestigious postseason tourney win or lose. In another big game Tuesday night, Texas Tech nipped Arkansas 64-63 to win the Southwest Conference and nail down an automatic berth in the NCAA playoffs. Elsewhere, No. 13 Missouri beat Kansas 79-63; No. 17 St. John's, N.Y., ripped Holy Cross 108-90; New Mexico State blasted West Texas State 108-81; West Virginia tripped Pitt 59-58; Cincinnati coasted past Butler 83-57; Oral Roberts romped over Pan American 116-79 and Army topped Seton Hall 64-61.

Wooster Heads To Playoffs After Winning OC Crown

The unheralded Wooster Scots suddenly find themselves headed for the NCAA Great Lakes regional playoffs after capturing the Ohio Conference basketball championship. The Scots edged Wittenberg 49-48 in a pressure-packed title game at Denison Tuesday night on a pair of clutch free throws by sophomore Gene Schindewolf with 13 seconds showing on the clock.

The triumph automatically qualified Wooster for a berth in the NCAA playoffs next week at a site yet to be determined. Wittenberg, tied with three other teams for first place in the league at the end of regular season play, led through the first period and had a 22-18 advantage at halftime. Wooster caught up in the second half, but Wittenberg took charge again and mounted a four-point lead. The

Allen Leads Money Parade

SARASOTA, Fla. (AP) — Just a year ago, Dick Allen was baseball's bad man. No team, it seemed, was willing to put up with his idiosyncracies for very long. The Chicago White Sox took their turn with the temperamental slugger last season, acquiring him from the Los Angeles Dodgers in exchange for pitcher Tommy John. Now the White Sox are not only willing to put up with Allen, they're paying him more money than any player in the history of the major leagues. Allen, who changed the White Sox from an also-ran into a solid pennant contender, signed a three-year contract Tuesday for $675,000. The previous top salary in baseball was negotiated by Hank Aaron of the Atlanta Braves, who is in the second of a three-year contract for $600,000. Allen's remark on the contract was: "I can't count that high."

California Angels, acquired from the Dodgers in an off-season deal, signed a two-year contract for a reported $300,000. "We have recognized what he has done in the past and what he can do in the future for us," said Angels General Manager Harry Dalton. Allen, who will be 31 next month, broke into the majors with the Philadelphia Phillies in 1964. He was traded to the St. Louis Cardinals where he played one year before being traded to the Dodgers for another one-year stint. When he learned about his trade to the White Sox, Allen reportedly was reluctant to sign. He finally came to terms for $130,000 and turned out to be a bargain. He led the American League with 37 home runs and 118 runs batted in and his .308 average was only 10 points shy of batting champion Rod Carew of the Minnesota Twins. He was voted the American League's Most Valuable Player and proved to be a boon for the White Sox gate. "I'm excited about this ball club after the way we played last season," said Allen. "There's no doubt in my mind that we can win the pennant." Slugger Rusty Staub agreed to a three-year, $330,000 deal with the New York Mets—but General Manager Bob Scheffing said a fringe benefit clause was holding up the contract signing. "There's something Rusty wants, but I don't want to give it to him," Scheffing said. Cincinnati Reds' catcher Johnny Bench, who underwent surgery for a benign lesion in his right lung during the offseason, said he could not foresee any problems with his throwing arm. "I've been throwing for two days and there's nothing but the normal stiffness you get after two days," Bench said. Commissioner Bowie Kuhn said in Boston that the new three-year agreement between the players and club owners would provide "three years of peace."

Sparky Fears Injuries, Not Foes

TAMPA, Fla. (AP) — Cincinnati Manager Sparky Anderson fears injuries more than any team in the Western Division as his Reds prepare to defend their National League championship. "We can win it, we should win it," said Anderson, who opens his fourth training camp as Cincinnati Manager Thursday. "We have the best team in the division, there's no doubt about it,"

Anderson said. "Last year, even though we lost the World Series, I'm convinced Pittsburgh or us was the best team in baseball. "And there's no telling how the Pirates will react to losing Roberto Clemente," Anderson added. Clemente, a sure Hall of Famer, was killed in an airplane crash while on a mercy mission to aid victims of an earthquake in Nicaragua this winter. "All that can hurt us is injuries to key players or not going into the season with the right frame of mind," Anderson said.

"In 1971, after we won a pennant, injuries took us where we went," he added, pointing out that two seasons ago his team dropped from the NL throne to a fourth place tie in the Western Division and a sub-.500 season. "We've got to work this year, get down to serious business," he said. "We won last year and I feel we'll win again. But our division is the toughest in baseball."

CMBA Sets City Pin Tournament

The seventh annual Circleville Men's Bowling Association City Tournament will be held March, 24, 25, 31 and April 1. Team events will be held on the first weekend at Circle "D" Lanes. The Board of Directors authorized a motion to put $90 into the tournament. Based on at least 50 teams entered in the tournament, first place prize money will be $200. This can be raised if more than 50 teams enter.

"Atlanta improved itself, and can throw a wrench into the whole thing," he said "but I don't believe they can win it if we stay healthy." And San Francisco, he said, "they were champions two years ago. If Willie McCovey gives them a full season, not getting injured like he did last year, that will improve them one full notch.

CARROLL RICHTER'S HOROSCOPE

from the Carroll Richter Institute

GENERAL TENDENCIES: A wonderful, unusual day for you to get the backing of those who are in a position to know what can best further your interests. Contact any outlets which can aid you in your advancement, then be with as many persons as possible to gain their goodwill and help. Try to get those in the know to release to you some special knowledge you need.

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19) Get together with good friend who can open new doors of opportunity for you. Secure backing for your new plans. Join some group meeting that is most worthwhile.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20) Make a beeline for those important persons you know and gain needed advice and support from them. Buy those mechanical gadgets that will make your work easier and better. Being more cooperative with bigwigs is wise.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) Get out to places and be with people who can assist you in putting your most important plans in motion successfully. You find you get ahead fast if you are broad-minded. Take it easy in the evening and rest.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21) With all the responsibilities you have, this is a good day to get the support of bigwigs. Sit down with a good adviser and secure the right ideas. Make this a particularly productive day and p.m.

LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21) You understand much better how to cooperate more intelligently with associates and get the right results. Find right way to get rid of opposition from an unfriendly source. Think.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) Now that you can really understand your associates, come out with the right ideas for mutual advancement. Plan time for shopping for whatever will make you look more charming. Avoid one whose taste is not good.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) If you step out to places where good friends meet, you can get rid of that slough of despondency you find yourself in. You have good ideas, so discuss them and gain support for them as well as advice, data you need. Do some work tonight.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) Apply some of your effort to home and make everything there immaculate and harmonious. Plan just how to start an uptrend in your business or personal life and take the right steps in such directions.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) Good day to communicate with others and exchange favors, lend a helping hand where needed, and vice versa. State aims, learn about theirs. Shop, run errands, and handle travel matters.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) Put those ideas to work that will add to your income appreciably, since you have been thinking about them long enough. Sit down with clever business experts and get their advice. State your aims, problems clearly.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) You should be lighthearted today and can pursue your aims in a most efficient manner and get right results. Go out socially in p.m. and have further success. Make new vital friends of worth.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) You feel high-powered and want to go after your aims in a most forceful way, but do not confide your plans to others and be more diplomatic. Learn from others how to get along better with your fellowman. Think.

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY... he or she will be one of those charming young people who appears to be full of understanding and helpfulness toward others. However, the main aim here is to become popular and learn from others, which is fine provided you, as parents, screen the individuals your child cultivates while young. Then the big talents in this chart are brought out successfully. Give music lessons, also.

"The Stars impel, they do not compel." What you make of your life is largely up to YOU!

Views On Television

NEW YORK (AP) — The honors season officially gets under way this Saturday night when the CBS Television network broadcasts live coverage of the record industry's "Grammy" awards bash.

The show is coming from Nashville, Tenn., for the first time in the 15-year history of the event. Singer Andy Williams will be the master of ceremonies for the third consecutive year.

There are 47 award categories, ranging from "best inspirational performance" to "best album notes."

And there are more than 260 entries, ranging from "Papa Was a Rolling Stone" to a performance of Ravel's "Concerto in D Major for Left Hand."

Fortunately, we won't have to sit through all the awards and attendant speeches. The program only lasts 90 minutes and will feature just 12 categories of recording achievement, CBS says.

As usual, the televised portion of the show is overloaded with assorted popular, country and western and rhythm and blues music awards and performers.

All the nominees came from an original list of 4,000 entries submitted by members of the National Academy of Recording Arts and Sciences, according to George Simon, a NARAS consultant.

"I'm in favor of death," she said in a recent interview.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) If you step out to places where good friends meet, you can get rid of that slough of despondency you find yourself in. You have good ideas, so discuss them and gain support for them as well as advice, data you need. Do some work tonight.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) Apply some of your effort to home and make everything there immaculate and harmonious. Plan just how to start an uptrend in your business or personal life and take the right steps in such directions.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) Good day to communicate with others and exchange favors, lend a helping hand where needed, and vice versa. State aims, learn about theirs. Shop, run errands, and handle travel matters.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) Put those ideas to work that will add to your income appreciably, since you have been thinking about them long enough. Sit down with clever business experts and get their advice. State your aims, problems clearly.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) You should be lightweight today and can pursue your aims in a most efficient manner and get right results. Go out socially in p.m. and have further success. Make new vital friends of worth.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) You feel high-powered and want to go after your aims in a most forceful way, but do not confide your plans to others and be more diplomatic. Learn from others how to get along better with your fellowman. Think.

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY... he or she will be one of those charming young people who appears to be full of understanding and helpfulness toward others. However, the main aim here is to become popular and learn from others, which is fine provided you, as parents, screen the individuals your child cultivates while young. Then the big talents in this chart are brought out successfully. Give music lessons, also. "The Stars impel, they do not compel." What you make of your life is largely up to YOU!

"They served us and our nation selflessly," said the Rev. John Glorie, director of the Roman Catholic residence for boys from broken homes.

Young guitarists played and sang, "Where have all the soldiers gone? Gone to graveyards, every one...."

"Stand the pallbearers, all splendor in blue," Mark had written. "The meadow is crying, tears turned to dew."

The notes of Taps drifted through tall pines and lingered in the air behind the shrine where a flag drooped at halfstaff.

Mark's words were read softly by the priest to whom he had sent his poem, the Rev. John Nevins.

"So sound the Taps softly on Mourning Dove Hill, whisper the wind gently while heaven stands still...."

Mark, blond, sturdy and sunny-faced, was remembered as a "glorious boy, a superb athlete," by a member of the Boystown staff, Margaret Hall. He came to the home in 1965 after his mother was stricken with cancer. She has died but his father, Jack Taylor of Allen Park, Mich., survives.

No one at Boystown had thought of Mark as a poet, Father Glorie said—"He may have had a premonition. It's almost as if he were writing about himself."

Tremors Shake East U.S., Kuril Islands

PHILADELPHIA (AP)—A tremor rocked eastern Pennsylvania and areas in Delaware and Maryland at about 3:30 a.m. today, lasting for just several seconds, but shaking through structures and prompting an avalanche of phone calls to police, fire departments and newspapers by puzzled sleepers.

State police at Treves, Pa. reported that their computer which is connected with measuring devices at the Franklin Institute in Philadelphia recorded a tremor of 3.4 on the Richter scale.

The National Earthquake Information Center at Boulder, Colo. said it had no initial measurement of a tremor along the East Coast this morning. It added that any tremor would not be connected with the "major earthquake" centered in the Kuril Islands in the Northern Pacific at 1:38 a.m. EST. today.

There were reports the rumbling in the Philadelphia area reached as far south as Wilmington, Del., and in a northerly direction to Allentown and parts of New Jersey.

A spokesman at the Philadelphia police radio control center said they had received no reports of any damages, injuries or any other serious trouble due to the shaking. Asked if they had received any distress calls, the dispatcher said, "not a one," adding: "We've gotten about 1800 calls in the last 40 minutes asking what it was though."

A call to the city fire department resulted in a similar response. The fire department said it had received no calls for help of any kind, but that it, too, had received numerous inquiries about the nature of the tremor.

The Kuril Islands quake registered a 7.5 on the Richter scale, as compared with the 6.2 Richter mark earthquake that devastated Managua, Nicaragua, last December.

A NEIC spokesman said the Kuril Islands quake was shallow and apparently caused extensive surface waves. But the Shemya tide station in the Aleutians reported that the Pacific quake did not generate seismic waves.

Tuskegee Study Patients Lose Federal Health Care

WASHINGTON (AP) — Now that a controversial U.S. Public Health Service syphilis experiment has ended, the federal government has no legal means to deliver health care to those who survived the test.

Officials at the Department of Health, Education and Welfare, parent agency of the PHS, concede that they no longer have authorization or funds to continue physical examinations and medical treatment for the Alabama black men who survived the 40-year Tuskegee Study.

One official has called the matter

"merely an administrative problem" for which a solution was being sought. But he could offer no estimate on how long the solution might take.

The Tuskegee syphilis study began in Macon County, Ala., in 1932 and ended after public disclosure of the project last year. More than 430 poor, rural black men with syphilis were denied treatment for the disease so doctors could study through eventual autopsy the damage untreated syphilis does to the human body.

At least 28 of the men died as a direct result of untreated syphilis and many others may have been crippled.

When existence of the study was disclosed last summer, HEW appointed a citizens panel to investigate the experiment. Last fall, the panel recommended that the study be ended immediately and that survivors be given all needed medical treatment. HEW said it would comply.

"If you live around an individual for an extended period of time you are going to generate some type of friendship," he said Tuesday at Travis Air Force Base in California. "We were on a friendly basis with them."

Tremors Shake East U.S., Kuril Islands

PHILADELPHIA (AP)—A tremor rocked eastern Pennsylvania and areas in Delaware and Maryland at about 3:30 a.m. today, lasting for just several seconds, but shaking through structures and prompting an avalanche of phone calls to police, fire departments and newspapers by puzzled sleepers.

State police at Trevoise, Pa. reported that their computer which is connected with measuring devices at the Franklin Institute in Philadelphia recorded a tremor of 3.4 on the Richter scale.

The National Earthquake Information Center at Boulder, Colo. said it had no initial measurement of a tremor along the East Coast this morning. It added that any tremor would not be connected with the "major earthquake" centered in the Kuril Islands in the Northern Pacific at 1:38 a.m. EST. today.

There were reports the rumbling in the Philadelphia area reached as far south as Wilmington, Del., and in a northerly direction to Allentown and parts of New Jersey.

A spokesman at the Philadelphia police radio control center said they had received no reports of any damages, injuries or any other serious trouble due to the shaking. Asked if they had received any distress calls, the dispatcher said, "not a one," adding: "We've gotten about 1800 calls in the last 40 minutes asking what it was though."

A call to the city fire department resulted in a similar response. The fire department said it had received no calls for help of any kind, but that it, too, had received numerous inquiries about the nature of the tremor.

The Kuril Islands quake registered a 7.5 on the Richter scale, as compared with the 6.2 Richter mark earthquake that devastated Managua, Nicaragua, last December.

A NEIC spokesman said the Kuril Islands quake was shallow and apparently caused extensive surface waves. But the Shemya tide station in the Aleutians reported that the Pacific quake did not generate seismic waves.

Tuskegee Study Patients Lose Federal Health Care

WASHINGTON (AP) — Now that a controversial U.S. Public Health Service syphilis experiment has ended, the federal government has no legal means to deliver health care to those who survived the test.

Officials at the Department of Health, Education and Welfare, parent agency of the PHS, concede that they no longer have authorization or funds to continue physical examinations and medical treatment for the Alabama black men who survived the 40-year Tuskegee Study.

One official has called the matter

"merely an administrative problem" for which a solution was being sought. But he could offer no estimate on how long the solution might take.

The Tuskegee syphilis study began in Macon County, Ala., in 1932 and ended after public disclosure of the project last year. More than 430 poor, rural black men with syphilis were denied treatment for the disease so doctors could study through eventual autopsy the damage untreated syphilis does to the human body.

At least 28 of the men died as a direct result of untreated syphilis and many others may have been crippled.

When existence of the study was disclosed last summer, HEW appointed a citizens panel to investigate the experiment. Last fall, the panel recommended that the study be ended immediately and that survivors be given all needed medical treatment. HEW said it would comply.

POW Made Friends With North Viets

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Air Force Capt. Lynn E. Guenther says he was permitted to bathe daily and shave twice a week and that he made friends with some of the men who guarded him for 14 months in his prisoner of war camp in North Vietnam.

"If you live around an individual for an extended period of time you are going to generate some type of friendship," he said Tuesday at Travis Air Force Base in California. "We were on a friendly basis with them."

Mainly About People

Fred Harris, Ashville, is a patient in Ward 12, Bed 38 of the Brown VA Hospital, Dayton. The address is 4100 W. Third St., Dayton, Ohio, 45428.

James H. Fouch, 336 Lancaster Pike, has been dismissed from Veterans Hospital, Cincinnati.

Scott Eugene Derexson, son of Mr. and Mrs. Ronald E. Derexson, 708 E. Ohio St., is a patient in room 402, Children's Hospital, Columbus.

Theft Correction

The theft of 48 bottles of soft drinks, which appeared in Tuesday's Herald, occurred at the South Court St. Market, 640 S. Court St., not the South End Market, 1033 S. Washington St., as reported.

High Court Rules On Segregation

WASHINGTON (AP) — When a segregated swimming club in a Washington suburb gave membership preference to those living nearby, it gave up any basis for denying membership to Negroes, the Supreme Court ruled unanimously today.

The high court reversed the U.S. Circuit Court at Richmond, Va., which had allowed the Wheaton-Haven

Recreation Association, as a private club, to bar Negroes as members.

"When an organization links membership benefits to residency in a narrow geographical area, that decision infuses those benefits into the bundle of rights for which an individual pays when buying or leasing within the area," wrote Justice Harry Blackmun for the court.

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Gov. John J. Gilligan has appointed Norman M. Gatti, 50, of St. Clairsville, chief of the State Division of Mines.

Bates Attacks Health Providers

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Ohio Welfare Director Charles Bates reported today some progress toward clearing up back welfare payments to health providers in the state.

At the same time he criticized the health professions for "medical materialism."

Bates said his department was concerned with "increasing reports" of "harassment" of medicare patients by health care providers. Such harassment, he said, included doctors turning away patients and pharmacies refusing to sell medicine to indigent patients.

$1 Billion Estimated

NEW YORK (AP) — American industry will spend $1 billion on pollution abatement in 1973, according to estimates of the research and management consulting firm of Arthur D. Little Inc. Total expenditures for capital goods by U.S. business should total $10 billion during the coming year, the firm said.

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — The Senate ways and Means Committee today recommended for passage a proposed constitutional amendment that would lift the $3,000 exemption ceiling in the state income tax. The vote was 6-0. Committee chairman, Sen. Michael J. Maloney, R-7 Cincinnati, who offered the proposal, said it would remove the six $500 per person exemptions imposed on families in the Ohio Constitution and income tax law. The exemption ceilings were placed in the constitution when it was re-written in 1912. Maloney said it had not posed a hardship until Ohio adopted a state income tax.

The constitutional amendment proposal probably will be on the November ballot. Falkland Islanders can prepare infinite varieties of lamb or mutton. Known locally as the "365 diet," the meat is eaten almost every day of the year.

CINCINNATI, Ohio (AP) — Citizens of five southwestern Ohio counties met Monday night to form the Southwestern Ohio Regional Council on Alcoholism. The group plans to fight the problems of alcoholism through coordination of present programs and development of new ones. Spokesmen said the group's top immediate goal is to establish an COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — A Republican state senator today called for a Senate investigation of the Ohio Bureau of Employment Services to see if the state's civil service law is being violated by employee dismissals.

Sen. Stanley J. Aronoff, R-8 Cincinnati, said BES administrator William E. Garnes had notified approximately 250 employees they will no longer have a job March 2.

Aronoff said Garnes gave a reduction in federal funds as the reason for the firings.

"Preliminary investigation in the Greater Cincinnati area has shown that the majority of firings have occurred in spite of employee seniority," Aronoff said.

"Almost without exception," he said, "employees with longevity were discharged while other employees with much less seniority were retained. He said the senior employees were Republicans.

"But if partisan politics was not the motivating force, this blatant destruction of job security violates the whole concept of civil service," Aronoff said.

"Mr. Garnes," he added, "is apparently retaliating against the federal cutbacks by firing people who have absolutely nothing to do with the federal policy. This is the spoils system at its worst."

Garnes could not be reached for comment, but an aide, Stan Wyman, said civil service law does not deal with the question of seniority.

"The cutback in federal funds are so severe (estimated $4 million a year), we had to determine what group of employees we could best do the job with," Wyman said. "This doesn't mean the ones we are letting go were not doing their job."

Wyman said BES had been informed of the budget cuts back in August but "attempted very hard to see if attrition, coupled with a freeze in hiring, could reduce the work force enough to take care of it."

"It was not enough," Wyman said.

Dear Abby:

By Abigail Van Buren

Nest Egg Not For Birds Who Have Flown

DEAR ABBY: During our 30 years of married life, I worked two jobs so as to provide a good home for my wife and children. Now the kids are married and on their own-or so we thought.

My wife and I saved a little nest egg for our retirement years, but it seems that the style these days is to hand over the money to the kids for down-payments on homes, furniture, or just to help them pay their rent!

I am against this. I say, let them work for it the way we did. When they work for things themselves they appreciate them more. Why should we dig into our savings to make life easier for them.

My wife is a softy and has started to hand out money to our kids. Of course, there is no such thing as a "loan" or a "note" with your own children. It's just a present. Please print this with your answer. She thinks I am tight and hardhearted when I say, "No more!"

DAD IN HACKENSACK, N.J.

DEAR HACKENSACK: Let the kids hack it themselves in Hackensack and everywhere else! I'm with you, Dad.

DEAR ABBY: How does a guy go about finding one of those girls who's a sure thing? Know what I mean? The kind who meets a guy, and if they dig each other, she'll have an affair with him without getting too serious. They may even live together without any strings attached.

I've had the marriage bit, thanks, and I played it square, but she sure had me fooled. And when we split up, she took me for all I was good for.

I've thought of running an ad in the paper, but I don't know how to word it without being downright blunt. I'm no bum. I've got a job and I don't wear my hair long. Vital statistics: 34 years old, 6 feet tall, 180 pounds. Have brown eyes and dark hair, and can be amorous.

Please publish this. I may get a straight answer. You can skip the sermon. I once believed in love and marriage, but no more. At least this way there's no phony baloney, and everyone knows the score.

LOOKING IN ST. PAUL

DEAR LOOKING: You need me to help you find a "sure thing" like a moose needs a hatrack. The pickup joints in St. Paul are full of them. A word of warning, however, if you are seriously considering such a girl: Make a standing appointment with your physician every morning. You're a cinch to need it.

DEAR ABBY: I am in the process of suing my husband for extreme physical cruelty. He settled all disagreements with his fists, and the people at the emergency ward at the hospital are sick of seeing me.

My lawyer advised me to find somewhere else to live until we could get into court, so some friends took me in. While living with them, I became attached to their 22-year-old son. (I am 30, and have three children.)

I was given custody of the children and also the house and furnishings my husband and I owned jointly. When he was served and ordered to leave the premises, he stripped the place of all the furniture, including two television sets and the radio. He even took the light bulbs. He was ordered to pay me a certain amount for child support, but I haven't seen a penny of it.

My husband has been seen out dancing every night. My lawyer told me not to go out with men, but I am losing my sanity sitting here in an empty house without nothing to watch or listen to and sleeping in a borrowed sleeping bag. I called my lawyer and his answering service said he went on a vacation and will be gone for six weeks. What should I do?

STIR CRAZY IN ARKANSAS
DEAR STIR: Every lawyer should have a colleague his clintets can consult in his absence. If yours has not, you would be justified in finding another lawyer. Check with your local Legal Aid Society or the County Bar Association.

Problems? You'll feel better if you get it off your chest. For a personal reply, write to ABBY: Box No. 69700, L.A. Calif. 90069. Enclose stamped, self-addressed envelope, please.

Mrs. Meir Discounts Air Tragedy

WASHINGTON (AP) — Israeli Prime Minister Golda Meir says she believes the search for peace in the Middle East will go on, despite the shooting down of a Libyan airliner by Israeli planes last week.

Mrs. Meir also said upon her arrival in Washington Monday that she understood the world revulsion over the tragedy in which 106 persons, most of them Libyans, were killed.

"It would be indeed a callous world if it happened otherwise," she said, "but even in a state of shock and true sorrow we have to go on searching for peace."

Mrs. Meir planned to confer with members of Congress today and Wednesday, and will meet with President Nixon on Thursday regarding peace moves in the Middle East.

She said the United States now is playing "the perfect role" in the Middle East by expressing considerable interest in peace and showing its willingness "to help the parties to get together."

"I'm sure the United States is prepared to do everything possible to help," she added, "everything except one thing: to decide for the parties" or to impose a settlement.

Mrs. Meir said Israelis felt "true sorrow" over the shooting down of the Libyan airliner. "If we had an inkling that there were passengers on the plane nothing like this would have happened," she said.

Police Chief Assaulted

WALTON, Ky. (AP) — The Walton, Ky., police chief was hospitalized this morning after being knocked out by an unknown assailant near the Walton-Verona High School.

Mayor Dallas Justice said police Chief Tom Cady, 26, was struck from behind as he carried out a routine check at the high school shortly after 1 a.m. today.

Cady was knocked unconscious momentarily, Justice said, but soon was able to crawl into his police cruiser and radio for help.

Justice said he strongly believed the incident was related to one last Friday night in which Cady rearrested several teenagers for drinking, and took one to jail. He received some threats after that," Justice said.

Cady was under observation in St. Elizabeth Hospital in Covington.

Justice said the Kentucky State Police had been asked to investigate the incident.

Urge State Law Making Felony Of False Alarms

CINCINNATI, Ohio (AP) — Reacting to a series of false alarm calls, a local firemen's union says it may ask passage of a state law making turning in of a false fire alarm a felony.

Joseph Patterson, president of Local 476, International Association of Firefighters, said the union will consult with state legislators about such a bill.

Patterson said turning in a false alarm should be a homicide if a fireman dies responding to such an alarm.

City figures indicate some 22,500 false alarms were turned in during 1972, at an average cost to the city of $300 each.

Trapping Water Rats

LONDON (AP) — Extra trappers are being called in by the Eastern Suffolk and Norfolk River Authority for an all-out campaign against the coypu, a South American water rat, once bred for its fur.

Three mild winters have encouraged the coypu to breed rapidly and farmers have protested about mounting damage to crops and river banks.
